Danger Of Poisoning

U.S. Asks Food Recall

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has initiated the voluntary market removal of 13.9 million servings of a nationally known soup mixture because of food poisoning danger.

Also since January, it has spurred industry recalls of 334,000 pounds of popcorn packed by a Milford, Ill., firm; of 24,000 nationally-distributed frozen strawberry pies manufactured by a Columbus, Ohio, baker; and of 2,000 cases of name-brand candy. All were contaminated with insect or rodent material, or both.

Other food items recalled in the past three months because of contamination in certain brands and lots include dried eggs, anchovies, noodles, raisins, frozen fried chicken, peanut butter, pimentos, pizzas and cooked mushrooms.

The recalls are never totally successful, according to a spokesman for the Food and Drug Administration. Some of the products are purchased and consumed. The agency can't specify how many.

"Today's scientific knowledge, working through good laws to protect consumers, assures the safety and wholesomeness of every component of the American food supply," says the FDA, and indeed the great majority of foods, health supplies and cosmetics sold to the public are safe and wholesome. The National Academy of Sciences says, however, FDA inspects only 40 per cent of the 64,000 interstate food processing plants subject to federal checking, and the agency itself estimates that 20 per cent of the plants are in substantial violation of government standards.

The most spectacular recall this year has been the 13.9 million servings of these nationally distributed, canned, Lipton soups: Perky Noodle Soup Mix, Chicken Vegetable Soup Mix, Ring-O-Noodle Soup Mix With Real Chicken Broth, Giggle Noodle Soup With Real Chicken Broth—test marketed in New England only—Beef Flavor Noodle Soup With Vegetables.

All the soups were contaminated with a bacteria called salmonella that can cause food poisoning. The organism was traced to the manufacturer of the noodle soup used in the Lipton mixes.

Lipton is recalling the mixes from retail shelves, but the FDA estimated that between 15 and 20 per cent remained on the market as of last week.

The FDA's weekly recall reports for this year show such other health-related product defects as:

—21 instances of contaminated batches of cosmetics, versus 11 in all of 1969. Most of the contaminants found, among other places in eye liner and cologne, were bacteria that can cause skin infections.

—Candle holder whose base exploded when the candle burned low.

—Drugs of varying potency that were mislabeled, encased in tubes that leaked or lacked an essential ingredient.

—Such supposedly sterile hospital supplies as sponges, scalpels and catheters that were contaminated.

Tuesday night the FDA warned against eating a brand of prepared pizzas distributed by the Roman Inn Pizza Co., throughout the upper Midwest.

The FDA said mushrooms in some of the 80,000 "Roman Deluxe Italian Brand" pizzas produced this month are suspected of causing botulism, an acute food poisoning that can be fatal.

Roman Inn Pizza has been recalling the pizza, the FDA said, but "since distribution has been so widespread and has gone on for several weeks a public warning is considered necessary."

The 24,000 Mountain Top Frozen Strawberry Pies were recalled, the FDA said, because of "rodent contamination of fruit used as a raw material."

The recall of 2,000 cases of Russell Stover Candies distributed in Missouri, Nebraska and Indiana was caused by "rodent and insect infestation of plant and rodent and insect hairs and fragments found in samples," the FDA said.

The agency attributed the recall of the 334,000 pounds of popcorn to "rodent contamination of plant and product." The popcorn is packaged under these labels, according to the FDA: Buddy Boy Hulless, Premiere 404 Monarch Popcorn, Our Family Popcorn, and Richelieu.

Many Observe Earth Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Youth joined hands with age across the generation gap Wednesday in a singular celebration of Earth Day, pleading for a halt to pollution lest it destroy the world man lives in. Across the nation, trash was gathered, streets swept, ponds and parks cleaned, trees and flowers planted.

"It is now time to give something in return for all we have taken from the earth," said Mark LeDoux, 16, a student at a private Oklahoma City school where the mock burial of a gasoline engine was staged to protest internal combustion fumes.

High school students in Joliet, Ill., donned gauze masks to symbolize the quality of the air they breathed. The statue of the University of Southern California's Trojan mascot was equipped with a gas mask.

In Topeka, Kan., and San Diego, Calif., many youngsters went to school on horseback, bicycles, roller skates and skateboards, leaving their cars at home.

A goat wandered about a lawn in Centralia, Wash., bearing a sign reading: "I eat garbage, what are you doing for your community?"

Yellow dye was dumped into sewage treatment plants in the Miami area to track the progress of wastes into waterways. A group calling itself "Environmental Vigilantes" dumped crankcase oil into a reflecting pool of the Standard Oil Co. of California in San Francisco to call attention to oil slicks created at offshore wells.

Hundreds of soot-black balloons marked "Gasp" were distributed at an antipollution rally that jammed Chicago's civic center plaza with thousands, mostly high school pupils.

Students in St. Louis paraded to Forest Park, gathering trash en route, and had to pay $5 for a parade permit to carry out their cleanup mission.

Some 1,500 Louisville pupils crowded into the Atherton High School concourse to illustrate the problem of overpopulation, in a demonstration that ended with pushing, grabbing and pinching.

University of Wisconsin students shivered in freezing weather to greet the rising sun with Biblical readings and an apology to God for environmental abuse.

At West Bend, Wis., high school students paid for the privilege of taking part in the destruction of an automobile. The funds went to a school antipollution group.

A firm in Riverton, Ohio dismantled its incinerator and said that in the future it would haul away its trash.

Ninety pupils left Depew, N.Y., high school to clean up the grounds, and were locked out because they had cut special Earth Day science and social studies classes.

A festive group of 1,200 youth demonstrators marched from the Lincoln Memorial in Washington to the Department of Interior, where they heard a reading of an antipollution allegory based on the Declaration of Independence.

In the nation's capitol also, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., proposed in a speech the creation of a federal agency "to conquer pollution as we have conquered space."

Said a demonstrating coed, Ora Citron, 21, of the University of Southern California: "It's not just the kids. It's lawyers, doctors, scientists, mothers. Maybe this is one area where the generation gap doesn't exist. We're all working toward the same goal. We're earth housekeepers."

At Pace College in New York, three vials of water were on display. One taken from far up the Hudson River was clean. Another from the same river off downtown Manhattan was brown. A third sample from the East River was a mess of filth.

Teach-ins and seminars were held in scores of schools and colleges. Harvard students marched on Boston's Logan airport to hold a mock funeral in protest against the planned advent of the supersonic transport plane.

Protest Election End In Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Authorities clamped a lid on Bogota Wednesday, sending troops to surround the home of ex-dictator Gustavo Rojas Pinilla and clearing the streets of demonstrators charging that the presidential elections were rigged.

The volatile nation was under a state of siege imposed Tuesday night by President Carlos Lleras Restrepo as followers of Rojas threatened to use force to turn the presidency over to the 70-year-old retired general.

Rojas had held a lead in Sunday's election but latest returns, with 96 per cent of the vote tabulated, put the government-backed candidate, Misael Pastrana Borrero, in front by nearly 50,000 votes.

The tally was 1,571,249 votes for Pastrana, of the ruling National Front, to 1,521,267 for the former strong man.

Quiet returned to the city after a second night of violence during which police used tear gas and cavalry charges to clear the streets of thousands of Rojas followers.

Reports circulated that the Rojas camp had orders not to hit the streets again for at least 24 hours, despite their leader's declaration that "war is war."

"The government can jail all the people it cares to," the former dictator said, "but in two or three days it will have to free them, for the situation in the country worsens every day."

Rojas' Anapo party served notice that it would "not recognize a verdict different from the victory of this candidate: the president-elect of Colombia is Gen. Gustavo Rojas Pinilla."

"We hold the government and President Lleras responsible for the consequences his double-dealing and lying conduct may bring upon the country," it said.

U.S. Arrives At Trinidad

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — Six U.S. Navy vessels converged on Trinidad Wednesday with orders to move in if needed to evacuate American citizens from this island nation torn by disorders stemming from the arrest of Black Power movement leaders.

The move was announced as officials in Washington disclosed that the United States is flying small arms and ammunition which have been urgently requested by the Trinidad government. A State Department press officer said Trinidad had asked to buy the arms.

This information followed an unconfirmed report that rebel elements in Trinidad's army had seized the armory at the main base outside Port of Spain and controlled the weapons.

Trinidad police who have been trying to keep rampaging crowds in check are armed only with old single-shot Enfield rifles from Britain.

The 17,000-ton helicopter carrier Guadalcanal, flagship of the U.S. Navy's Caribbean fleet, and three amphibious vessels, the Speigle Grove, Suffolk County and Vermillion weighed anchor off Puerto Rico Wednesday morning and began the run of nearly 600 miles to Trinidad as shooting continued in Port of Spain for the second straight day.

The pentagon also disclosed that the guided missile cruiser Biddle and the LST Terrebone

Parish had departed from unknown positions in the Caribbean and headed toward Trinidad.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told newsmen in Washington that the Navy craft were to stand by to be ready if needed to evacuate Americans.

"We have no intention of involving ourselves in the internal affairs of Trinidad," Ziegler said.

The crisis was touched off by the arrest of 14 leaders of the Black Power movement after Williams persuaded Gov. Gen. Sir Arthur McShine to declare a state of emergency.

Unrest had been mounting on the island-nation and the arrests sent a crowd of blacks surging into the streets smashing doors and store windows.

Shooting continued in and about Port of Spain Wednesday as loyal troops combed the hills in search of rebellious elements from the country's 800-man army, called the Regiment.

It had originally been reported that 200-300 soldiers defected, but later information indicated that the number was closer to 50. Loyal troops claimed the capture of 18 dissident soldiers Wednesday morning in the hills around regimental headquarters outside the capital.

Some rebel soldiers still in the hills were reported split into small groups, all of them armed with automatic weapons.

EARTH DAY—Students at Washington elementary school picked up the trash shown above bagged and ready to be hauled to the dump in the city truck in the background. The litter was gathered in the Washington school district. Included in the haul were two washing machines pulled from the town brook. The trash pick-up was a week-long job undertaken as part of the nation's first Earth Day, held Wednesday.

Inflation In March Extends Price Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation stole another nickel out of each $10 bill in March.

The Labor Department announced Wednesday that living costs rose five tenths of one per cent, extending the fastest price advance in 20 years. Big new increases in doctor bills and mortgage interest rates helped nudge the index.

Officials saw some hope for a slowdown somewhere ahead, however. Automobile and gasoline prices declined, food costs moved up more slowly, and after adjusting the figures for seasonal variations, the increase in consumer prices was four tenths of one per cent.

That was a bit smaller than February's five tenths of one per cent seasonally adjusted increase and better than the six tenths of one per cent increases recorded in each of the three preceding months.

There had been hope for a more convincing price slowdown, because wholesale prices in March showed the smallest increase in seven months.

Dr. Joel Popkin, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, told reporters the inflation rate as reflected in the new Consumer Price Index was "still significant, though there has been some easing from the late fall and early winter."

The index rose to 133.2 per cent of the 1957-9 average. This was 6.1 per cent above a year ago. It meant that a typical city family must pay $13.32 to buy the same assortment of goods in 1957-59.

Although rank-and-file workers made some gains in take-home pay in March, the consumer price bulge wiped out the gain and left their real spendable earnings just about unchanged from February. The real earnings were six tenths of one per cent below a year earlier and 2.8 per cent below the record high reached in September 1968.

Negotiations between the trucking industry and striking Teamsters remained deadlocked Wednesday.

Layoffs in areas hardest hit by the walkouts threatened to mount.

Officials in Chicago, where 40,000 drivers are either striking or locked out, said the dispute is costing the city between $30 million and $40 million a day.

Layoffs of some 40,000 workers were expected to reach 350,000 if the dispute continued.

Strikes by 13,000 Teamsters in Los Angeles and 10,000 in St. Louis continued. About 18,000 persons in Ohio were idled because of drivers' strikes in Cleveland and Akron.

No negotiations were scheduled between five associations representing 1,200 Chicago area trucking firms and Teamsters officials. The cartage groups say they will not negotiate with the union unless it moderates its bargaining posture.

The Chicago drivers want a three-year contract providing $1.65 hourly raises. A national contract for 450,000 Teamsters provides $1.10 hourly increases but the agreement has not been submitted for member ratification.

S. Viets Help Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — More than 5,000 South Vietnamese troops were reported Wednesday to have driven as deep as 15 miles into Cambodia, seizing enemy bases and arms caches and skirmishing with North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops.

The operation, which began Monday, may have been set up early last week when two Americans flew to the Cambodian provincial capital of Svay Rieng, 25 miles west of the border, to confer with the province chief, informed sources said.

They said the Americans, dressed in civilian clothes, were believed to be from the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

It was reported that the Svay Rieng Province chief met with the Americans and pinpointed the locations of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong bases and supply caches. The men flew in and out of Cambodia in two South Vietnamese helicopters, by this account.

The government forces include 11 ranger and infantry battalions and elements of armored cavalry with more than 100 armored personnel carriers.

South Vietnamese troops were said to have captured nearly 1,000 weapons in the operation, which stretched along a 30-mile front. They also destroyed 30 storage huts.

The two major concentrations of South Vietnamese troops were across the border from Tuyen Binh and Hong Ngu, district towns 53 and 75 miles west of Saigon.

Five U.S. Cobra helicopter gunships were said to have supported the operation by firing from the South Vietnamese side of the border.

Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett reported from operational headquarters at Moc Hoa that precautions were being taken to keep U.S. aircraft and advisers from crossing the border.

South Vietnamese forces claimed they killed more than 220 enemy soldiers in the first two days of the operation, which government communiques placed on the South Vietnamese side of the border.

Field reports said South Vietnamese casualties were at least 26 killed and 101 wounded.

The U.S. Command announced the loss of seven aircraft, including four over Southern Laos. An eighth aircraft, a light observation helicopter, was shot down but not destroyed.

American casualties were one killed, three missing, and two wounded. The seven losses raised to 6,683 the number of U.S. aircraft lost in the war.

North Viets More Active Cambodia In Trouble

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Enemy troops attacked Takeo Wednesday and forced some of the Cambodian defenders to withdraw from that provincial capital 50 miles south of Phnom Penh.

As the military situation worsened, some diplomats expressed doubts that the ill-equipped and green Cambodian army could stem the assaults in eastern Cambodia and that the whole region may soon fall to the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

Takeo is considered vital because it lies on Highway 3, which links the Cambodian capital with the southern port of Kampot.

Maj. Am Rong, a military spokesman, said the enemy forces opened up on Takeo with mortars, killing six Cambodian soldiers. Part of the garrison then fell back to the north but the remainder decided to stand and fight.

Already Highway 3 leading south from Phnom Penh is considered unsafe, police sources reported.

The government suffered another setback at Saang, on the Bassac River only 18 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

Enemy troops with automatic and mortar fire drove back two Cambodian battalions that attempted to push them out of Saang, which was seized Sunday.

Cambodian forces tried to set up the enemy positions with a three-hour artillery barrage. Then the Cambodian troops, many of them untrained student volunteers, tried to move forward backed by planes, armored cars and mortar fire.

They moved out for two hours, inching forward without drawing enemy fire. But when they neared Saang, enemy fire stopped the infantry in its tracks. Armored cars tried to keep going but retreated in a hail of rifle fire. Cambodian casualties were unknown.

Gen. Soren Fernandes, commander on the Saang front, said the idea of marching unarmed Vietnamese civilians toward the town Tuesday to try to get the Communist-led forces to go away was thought up by Premier Lon Nol.

"Our commander in chief," he continued, "had the idea of working psychologically on the Viet Cong troops by sending these people forward to explain to them in their own language that they had no reason to be here and that Cambodia wanted to be left in peace."

Fernandes insisted the Vietnamese had volunteered although some of them told reporters they had not.

At least four Vietnamese were wounded when the enemy opened fire on them, the army said.

In eastern Cambodia, enemy forces stepped up mortar attacks on the rubber plantation town of Snuol, about 125 miles northeast of Phnom Penh. Airports at Snuol and Mimot, 25 miles to the southwest on Highway 7, were closed.

A high government source said in Phnom Penh that Indonesia has agreed "in principle" to furnish military aid and "the assistance is coming soon."

This report was contrary to a recent statement by Foreign Minister Adam Malik of Indonesia that furnishing arms to Cambodia would only make the situation worse.

Torture In Greece

The repressive military government of Greece has had little success in persuading the world that its intentions are really benign and all in the interests of the Greek people. No one swallows that. There has been too much unimpeachable evidence that the Greek government is counter-democratic and authoritarian. The irony of that, in "the cradle of democracy," has not escaped free men.

Athens' protestations of essential virtue will be even harder to swallow, now that 15 other European governments have jointly charged the Greek junta with "torture and other ill treatment" of political prisoners. A long report alleging and detailing many instances of torture and abuse was drafted last year by the European Commission of Human Rights and has just been issued with the approval of 15 out of 17 governments (Cyprus and France abstained) represented by the Committee of Ministers. Athens dismisses the report as "null and void." Others will accept it as a stark disclosure of how things actually are these days in Greece.

Poking Into Tax Returns

Internal Revenue Commissioner Randolph W. Thrower has enunciated the novel doctrine that the president of the United States has unlimited authority to send his minions poking into individual income tax returns—without specifying the reason for inquiry—so long as "a matter of interest to the president" is involved. The dangers in this are evident.

The question was broached in Congress when it became known that President Nixon's investigative aide, Clark Mollenhoff, had been given access to tax returns of nine individuals. Some lawmakers are properly asking, "Why?"

In the hands of an unscrupulous occupant of the White House, the power to examine tax returns at will could become a potent weapon for use in threatening or coercing individuals. Saying this is not tantamount to accusing President Nixon of any such intent. The point we make is that the possibility of abuse exists, and that new safeguards against it should be erected if present law does not suffice.

Communications

To the Editor: The employees at Jacksonville State hospital would like to enlist the aid of citizens in your reading area to protest a plan to cut the Mental Health budget.

Governor Ogilvie has recommended a 30 million dollar cut for Mental Health.

The salaries of psychiatric aides, laundry workers, dietary workers and others directly concerned with the care of patients are inadequate now and are getting worse with each increase in living costs.

If the budget cut goes through, employees will be laid off, fired or whatever you wish to call it and the remaining employees and patients will suffer as much or more than they did during the strike in 1968.

I am very angry about this and think everyone who lives in this area or works at the Jacksonville State hospital or has a family member or friend who is a patient there should protest this move.

If you care at all about what happens, please write to your Senator, Representative or to the Governor.

The director of mental health received a raise in salary to $44,000 a year—the coordinator of mental health in the Governor's office draws $35,000 a year—but the take-home pay of a psychiatric aide with 11 years service is only $4,337.84.

Urge Governor Ogilvie to spread out some of these salaries more evenly.

Nixon Hopes To Defuse Vietnam As Political Issue

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon apparently hopes to defuse Vietnam as a political issue in the 1970 elections with his surprise announcement of troop withdrawals spanning a year.

Virtually up to the moment Nixon went on the air Monday night, the widespread expectation in Washington was for another presidential troop pull-back announcement covering a period of a few months, similar to his spacing since the withdrawals started last June.

With his new 150,000-man return order, Nixon is still bringing the boys home from Vietnam at about the same pace as before but the next stage would not have to be announced until next spring.

While Nixon left himself room to announce a further pull-out closer to the November elections—"we shall withdraw more than 150,000 over the next year if we make progress on the negotiating front"—he may have figured that:

—He would be accused of manipulating for political gain with an announcement during campaign time.

—Whatever announcement he made then would be attacked by antiwar critics as not enough. With a 150,000-man figure out now, his supporters could at least cite an in-process grand total of 265,000 withdrawals—about half the GIs out in Nixon's first two years.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, the Democrats' 1968 choice for vice president, promptly made plain he is not dropping Vietnam as an issue and put his finger on what bids to be a key Vietnam argument in the 1972 presidential campaign preliminaries next year.

The Maine senator said Nixon's statement suggests "that beginning sometime next spring, our troop levels in South Vietnam will level off at something like 284,000 for an indefinite period."

The issue of how many shall stay on in Vietnam indeed comes closer with each pull-back. A year hence, assuming no more progress at the negotiating table than hitherto, Nixon will be faced with a decision on cutting into what some believe is a hard core minimum of 200,000 or so GIs still needed to prevent South Vietnam's being overrun.

U.S. military leaders are already dubious about the President's withdrawal pace. The Joint Chiefs of Staff have recommended a delay, and many senior officers were surprised by Nixon's large commitment.

These officers do not share Nixon's confidence, which he expressed more strongly than ever before, in the rate at which South Vietnamese forces will be able to take over the combat.

Nixon sounded a theme that may be heard again in 1972 when he said "America has never been defeated in our proud 190-year history and we shall not be defeated in Vietnam." He also pledged again an "eventual, total withdrawal of American troops" without fixing a deadline.

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., says Nixon is in fact following Aiken's publicized formula for a Vietnam solution—declare victory and get out.

Whether this is an apt description will not be proved by election time 1970 and maybe not by 1972. While the 150,000-man withdrawal is described as irreversible, Nixon left options open thereafter and military men say the crucial tests on how well South Vietnam can go it alone are yet to come.

The New Diplomacy?

The Global View Greece Is Cozying Up To Moscow

By LEON DENNEN

NEA Foreign News Analyst
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA)—Because Ioannis Kapsis, the courageous Greek editor, urged the restoration of democracy in his country, an Athens military tribunal sentenced him to five years in prison and closed his 57-year-old newspaper, Ethnos.

The verdict of the "special court" hand-picked by Premier Papadopoulos was hardly a surprise.

The strongman of the colonel's junta that now rules Greece has been increasingly resorting to suppression in his desperate efforts to cope with growing internal pressure for political freedom.

According to reports reaching the United Nations, Greece's jails are overcrowded with men and women who defy the junta and challenge its policies. The European Commission on Human Rights has also disclosed that torture and other inhuman acts have been "officially tolerated" by the colonels.

This is more proof—if proof is still needed—that dictators, whether rightists or leftists, are brothers under the skin. They may quarrel and even come to blows on occasions, but they are united in their common fear of freedom and human decency.

There is little that the free world can do to bring relief to the people of Russia, Red China, Franco's Spain and Fidel Castro's Cuba.

But Greece is a special problem for NATO and especially the United States. It is one of the few remaining countries where an American is still a welcome friend and not an "imperialist."

More important, Greece is vital to NATO's southern flank.

However, according to George Mylanos, a former deputy prime minister who recently escaped from Greece, American tolerance and even support of Papadopoulos and his junta, is rapidly alienating the Greek people from the United States.

In his view, without America's moral and economic support the dictatorship would not last long.

"I don't say that the United States should intervene to help us—that's out of the question," Mylanos told this writer. "But the Pentagon should stop intervening in support of the colonels."

The Pentagon has its own military and strategic consideration, of course. But can NATO rely on the loyalty of the junta?

The colonels seized power in 1967 and suppressed democracy ostensibly to prevent a Communist take-over of Greece. But in recent months they have shown increasing interest in collaborating with Moscow.

Understandably, Papadopoulos finds it more congenial to deal with his fellow dictators in the East than with the Western democracies. He has even been asserting lately that communism is no longer a threat to his country.

Thus, on the very day the Council of Europe charged that he was violating human rights, members of the junta and the Russian ambassador in Athens attended a highly publicized ceremony dedicated to Soviet-Greek collaboration.

For the Russians, who seek to become a major power in the Mediterranean, close relations with Greece are a strategic and political asset. They would love to close Greek ports to the U.S. Sixth Fleet.

Ann Landers:

Trapped With Alcoholic

Dear Ann Landers: You frequently advise women who are married to alcoholics who refuse to help themselves to "throw the bum out."

What do you advise when the drunk is a wife? My life has been pure hell for 11 years because my wife is a boozier. The law won't let me kick her out. My lawyer says if I leave, the courts will give her half of everything I have. I know this is true because a friend of mine walks out on his alcoholic wife. She now lives in a $50,000 home and he is holed up in a dump. He has to give his wife half of everything he makes. Is this justice?—Trapped in Georgia

Dear George: When a man marries, he has a legal obligation to support his wife. The divorce laws in some states, however, are grossly unfair to husbands. I believe they should be changed. When the wife is better equipped to make a living for reasons of health and training, and when no children are involved, the wife should not get half of whatever he earns, come hell or high water, for the rest of her natural life.

Dear Ann Landers: Glad you printed the letter from the guy who never looked sideways at a certain girl but who attacked himself to him like a suction cup, pestered his family and hunted him down all over town. I thought I was the only one.

There's this woman, Ann, whose name I couldn't even spell. Suddenly she picked me out for her husband. If she spots me in public, I am finished. She has eyes like a hawk and can find me in a stadium that holds 30,000 people. She sent me a Valentine gift, cards for Lincoln's Birthday, George Washington's Birthday and Columbus Day. She has told my family she's going to marry me—as soon as I come to my senses and realize I'm in love with her.

The sad part of it is I might have married her if she hadn't chased me. She is rich and attractive—until she puts on her track shoes. Why are some women so stupid? They spoil it for themselves.—Oklahoma

Dear OK: It's not so much stupidity; insecurity propelled by aggressiveness. But you are right about spoiling it for themselves. They certainly do.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl, 14. Last summer when our family went on a holiday, I met a great bunch of teenagers. No smoking, drinking or pot. Just good, clean kids. A certain boy in the crowd (age 16) took a liking to me. We have been corresponding ever since. Last week Eddie wrote that he had saved his money and was going to see me. He has a friend in town and had arranged to stay at his house. I was very excited and told my parents.

Yesterday I was acting very strange. I knew something was wrong. Finally I got it out of her. She had sent Eddie a telegram telling him to cancel his trip because I wasn't THAT interested and signed my name. I'm very upset. Eddie was a friend, not a sweetheart. Mom says she did it for my own good because he is too old for me. I'd like your opinion.—Unfairly Treated

Dear U.T.: Your signature is also my opinion. Your mother should have told you of her displeasure and you should have decided together what was best.

Thoughts

Besides being wise, the Preacher also taught the people knowledge, weighing and studying and arranging proverbs with great care.—Eccles. 12:9.

It is well to think well: it is divine to act well.—Horace Mann, American educator.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Empire State building is the world's tallest building. In 1929, John Thompson sold the land on which the structure stands for $7,000. The World Almanac notes that Thompson had advertised that the "rapid growth of the city" would cause the value of this property to be greatly enhanced. Construction was completed on May 1, 1931, at a cost of $42 million and seven million man-hours of labor.

Law For Today

Q. My husband and I lived as common-law husband and wife for several years. We've been separated for the last 12 years. After such a long separation, and since we never were legally married, is it necessary to obtain a divorce? I'd like to marry and don't want to be accused of bigamy!

A. Common-law marriages have been prohibited in Illinois since 1905. However, common-law marriages entered into in this state prior to 1905, or in any state where common-law marriage is valid, are recognized as valid by this state. In a recent case, the question of whether two people entered into a valid marriage as common-law man and wife depends upon where the "marriage" took place. If in Illinois or in any other state where common-law marriage was prohibited at the time the relationship was entered into, no divorce is necessary.

BETHEL SCHOOL — This is a picture of Bethel (west of Chapin on Routes 67 and 104) school as it appeared in the spring of 1905. Rex Gilliland, who admits to being 74 years young, found the picture and says the school building is still standing in the Bethel community, although the front roof has been slightly altered. Twelve members of the Bethel school group of the 1905 era are still living: Nellie Callaway, Stella Rickey, Albert Newbern, Ada Drake, Eva Anderson, Elmer McDaniel, Dick McDaniel, Zelan Brockhouse, Edna Brockhouse, Johnny Brockhouse, Bessie Laughary and Rex Gilliland. Two of the teachers are still living, Mrs. Grover Smith and Miss Rena Pond.

Blossom Time Starts Sunday At Area Garden

Lincoln Memorial Garden, south of Springfield, celebrates the height of the spring season with its annual Blossom Time Festival from April 25 through May 3. The spectacle of the Garden's many dogwood and redbud trees, bursting into colorful bloom above the carpets of wildflowers that brighten the lakeside slopes, draws more visitors each year.

There are five miles of trails in the Garden's 77-acre tract of unspoiled woodland beauty and many nature-lovers enjoy sauntering leisurely at their own pace. Frequent guided walks are provided for those who prefer information along with their outing. Camera fans discover at every turn new vistas to frame in their viewfinders. Family visits enable young children to get their first feeling of nature's wonders and older children to learn respect for living things. Best of all, everyone has fun!

The Garden is open every day of the year from sunrise to sunset and there is no charge. The public is invited; children are welcomed. Now is the time to go, when flowers and trees are at their best and the many birds who find sanctuary there are at home.

In the Nature Center Building are exhibits of special interest; and the Split Rail Shop, staffed entirely by volunteers, offers a wide selection of moderately priced items, with all proceeds going to the Garden. The Nature Center Building, closed on Mondays, is open weekdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on Sundays from 2 to 5 p.m.

William Hammel is the Garden's director-naturalist.

$350 Million Airport Planned Near St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Plans for a second Metropolitan airport in the St. Louis area—to be located in Illinois—were announced yesterday by Mayor A. J. Cervantes and Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie of Illinois.

At a news conference they said the $350 million airport would be planned and developed by a joint authority of the City of St. Louis and the State of Illinois. The authority also would operate the city-owned Lambert Airport in St. Louis County.

No site has been selected in Illinois, said Ogilvie, and it may be 18 months before final approval is given on a site by air carriers and federal agencies.

The governor said it will probably be 10 years before the airport will be in operation.

Ogilvie said the new airport will be larger than Lambert.

Financing for immediate planning and related early-stage costs would be provided by the Illinois Legislature, Ogilvie said, but basic development of the airport would be financed through revenue bonds issued by the new airport authority.

The bonds would be retired by income from airport users, principally the airlines.

The statement said the seven-member authority would initially consist of five members from Illinois and two from St. Louis, but when Lambert Airport is turned over to the authority (three additional St. Louis members will be appointed to make equal representation).

The mayor said there is City Council approval for the plan and he anticipated the city would spend no money for the Illinois airport. He said Lambert Airport would be St. Louis' contribution.

Gov. Ogilvie said the airport in Illinois "will finally launch a project which holds the promise of revitalizing the entire economy of the Metro-East area."

He said consideration will be given to an intermodal transportation terminal complex recommended by the regional industrial development corporation. The complex would include rail, motor and water transportation facilities.

Cervantes said the authority would be called the St. Louis Metro Authority.

Cervantes said the city, located between the two airports, would remain the center of the metropolitan area and would benefit economically.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Thursday, April 23, the 113th day of 1970. There are 252 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1564, William Shakespeare was born at Stratford-On-Avon in England. He died on the same date in 1616.
On this date—
In 1789, President-elect and Mrs. George Washington moved into the first presidential mansion—at the corner of Franklin and Cherry Streets in New York City.
In 1791, the 15th American president, James Buchanan, was born in Franklin County, Pa.
In 1838, the first regular transatlantic steamship service began as the Sirius and Great Western arrived in New York from England.
In 1941, during World War II, King George II of Greece fled to the island of Crete. German invaders had broken through the Thermopylae Pass.
In 1949, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois vetoed a bill that would have required that cats be kept at home. He declared, "It is the nature of cats to do a certain amount of unescorted roaming."
In 1963, a white man, William A. Moore, was shot to death on a road near Attalla, Ala., while staging a one-man march against Negro segregation.
Ten years ago — French President Charles de Gaulle was visiting Washington.
Five years ago — The Soviet Union launched its first communications satellite.
One year ago — A jury in Los Angeles sentenced Sirhan Sirhan to death in the gas chamber for the murder of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Minor Fires At Ashland

ASHLAND — The local fire department was called out twice last Thursday. The first run was made to the Burch Rest Home about 12:30 p.m. The garage east of the location was badly scorched on one side where a trash can was setting. The other run was made to the home of Martha Mae Bast about 4:30 p.m. A shed, which was a store building for paint, screens, a power mower, and tools, etc., was destroyed completely. How the fire got started is a mystery. No one was at home.
Grace Louise Dalton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Dalton of near this city, was one of the mid-year graduates who received her diploma at the Patricia Stevens Career College at Milwaukee, Wis., in commencement exercises held March 21. She graduated from a nine-month executive secretarial course.
Vote April 14
An election will be held Tuesday, April 14, at the Ashland Township office to vote on the proposition "Shall the present maximum rate of .165 percent of the full, fair cash value, as equalized or assessed by the Department of Revenue on the taxable property of Ashland township for road purposes, be increased to a maximum rate of .33 percent on such taxable property?"
Polls will be open from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Ashland township office.
The annual town meeting will also be held at 7 p.m. on the same day.
Library Week
April 12-18 is the 13th annual National Library week observance. Find new directions — Read, Look, Listen in your library—reading is for everybody all year long.
A group of old books will be put on a large table at the library next week. They will be on sale for 10 cents to 25 cents. These books are old but in fair condition. Most of the books are fiction for adults and children.
ALWAYS THERE
DENVER (AP) — Cecil Conner, retired advertising executive, says he has missed only one annual meeting of the Denver Press Club since 1905.

McKendree Ace Paul Funkhouser Picked By Bulls

LEBANON — McKendree College's Paul Funkhouser has been drafted by the Chicago Bulls of the National Basketball Association.

Overlooked in the initial drafts held two weeks ago, Funkhouser was taken in the supplementary round late last week. The McKendree standout was informed Saturday in a letter from the Bulls.

Funkhouser has been notified to report to a rookie camp that will be held at DePaul University in Chicago June 11 through the 13th.

Bulls general manager Pat Williams contacted in his Chicago office early Monday morning, elaborated on the draft. "We selected 11 men in the first stage of the draft, and took only five more in the supplemental round," Williams stated. "So far, we have signed our first, second, third, fourth, and sixth draft choices."

Last year, the Chicago Bulls were unable to sign any of their draft picks, and this year, only five of the 16 choices have signed at this date. This is an expansion year for the National Basketball Association, so the signing of draft choices is more significant than usual. "We expect to lose three or four of our established boys in the expansion draft," Williams said.

When asked about Funkhouser's chances of making the NBA team, Williams had this to say: "Paul will be given every opportunity to make our team. I have spoken to him on the phone, and he is eager to report to the camp."

The 6'4" Funkhouser averaged 21.5 points per game and 14.8 rebounds in his senior season for the McKendree Bearcats. He is only the second Bearcat in McKendree history to score over 2000 career points, finishing with 2,016 in his four years.

McKendree coach Harry Statham was elated at the news on Funkhouser. "We stress balance on our teams," Statham said, "and we have three boys scoring over 20 points per game this year. Any of the three could have scored over thirty points a game if we had wanted to play that way. If Paul had scored more, I'm sure he would have been taken much earlier in the draft. He's one of the most unselfish players I've ever coached."

Statham is optimistic about Funkhouser's chances. "He's working hard every day to improve his game, and he's a very determined young man. I think he can make it."

Naturally disappointed at being bypassed in the earlier draft, Funkhouser has worked hard to stay in shape. He recently was contacted by the Denver Rockets regarding a try-out, but being drafted by the Chicago Bulls has eliminated all of the disappointments.

"All I ever wanted was a chance, and now I have it," remarked the happy young man.

Funkhouser is the first McKendree basketball player ever to be drafted by a professional basketball team, and McKendree (enrollment 450) may be the smallest college represented in the drafts.

The rookie camp in Chicago runs June 11 through June 13. Paul and his wife Carol will mark their first wedding anniversary June 14. Both are hoping for a contract with the Chicago Bulls to add to the celebration.

Wente Accepts Grant-In-Aid With Illinois

CHAMPAIGN — Mike Wente, 6'7, 210-pound, scoring star of Effingham St. Anthony's state basketball tournament entry, will accept a grant-in-aid tender and attend the University of Illinois, he announced today.

He joins St. Louis Beaumont's 6'8 Bill Morris and Chicago Harper's 6'6 Kris Berymon in the Illinois fold.

An All-State player, Wente scored 33 points and had 11 rebounds in St. Anthony's first-round state tournament triumph over Collinsville, and 26 points and six rebounds in the quarter-final loss to eventual champion LaGrange Lyons.

He averaged 23 points and 14 rebounds for the season, shooting over 50 per cent from the field. His team had a 28-3 record for Coach John Koller. As a junior, he starred on a 20-8 team.

A fine student, he plans to study engineering at Illinois. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Morris Wente.

Coach Harv Schmidt said of his latest acquisition:

"Mike is an outstanding competitor. His ability to play his best basketball against Collinsville and LaGrange in the state tournament verifies this. He has the strength and toughness to take the ball to the hoop, as well as the rebounding ability to play on the Big 10 level. We are very pleased to have him with us, as we attempt to build the nation's number-one basketball program."

New Arrivals Face Champs In Tournament

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — Golf's new breed, a group of rising young stars that is quickly gaining dominance of the pro game, is set to challenge the established greats in the prestigious Tournament of Champions.

The 72 hole test begins Thursday on the plush La Costa Country Club course, with — as usual — such standouts as Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper and Gary Player in the favorites' role.

But they face major competition from such emerging greats as Frank Beard, Dave Hill, Ray Floyd and Lee Trevino.

And, too, there's the mod squad, a group of flashy youngsters in their 20s who won their way into this prestige-laden event and constitute a major threat.

Included in that group are such as Ron Cerrudo, Bob Lunn, Tony Jacklin and Larry Hinson.

But it is the imposing quartet of Palmer, Nicklaus, Casper and Player that still gains the lion's share of attention in the elite field of 31, all the tournament winners of the last 12 months on the pro tour.

Palmer, at 40 the second oldest player in the field, still ranks as the game's greatest drawing card and always has to be considered a threat, particularly on a tight course such as this one which places a premium on accuracy.

Casper, Nicklaus and Player have possibly the best recent scores. The quiet Casper has won twice—including the Mas- as Frank Beard, Dave Hill, Ray ters — this year, Nicklaus has been out of the top 10 only once in his last eight starts and Player has won over $61,000 in the last six weeks.

Tovar Powers Minnesota To 3-1 Five-Frame Win

ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Cesar Tovar cracked a two-run homer in the fifth and powered the Minnesota Twins to a 3-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox Wednesday in a game shortened to five innings by rain.

The White Sox had missed a chance to break the tie in their fifth when Ted Herrmann fell down rounding third on a single by Walt Williams, who was cut down trying for second on the play.

Minnesota pitcher Luis Tiant earned his second victory without a loss with a four-hitter, Chicago 000-10-14-1 Minnesota 100-02-3-70

Horlen and Herrmann; Tiant and Rattliff. W-Tiant (2-0) L-Horlen (1-2). HR—Minnesota, Tovar (2).

Members of the Park board at their last meeting discussed renaming the park area and improving it. Ball diamonds, tennis courts, and other recreational facilities have been in use for a number of years.

MINI-SKIRT NOW JOKE TO MARY QUANT

LONDON (AP) — The mini-skirt is now nothing but a joke to Mary Quant, the designer who invented it. She showed an all mid and maxi collection without bras yesterday.

"We did put in one miniskirt just for a joke, but we couldn't vote from the School Board go through with it, so we took it out," a spokesman for Miss Quant's Ginger Group said.

The new Quant clothes are nearly all in knit jersey, worn without bras and outlining every skinny curve.

Non-degree teachers were granted a 10 percent increase in salary over last year's contract.

In other action Sherwood Credit was appointed head custodian. The board also agreed to hire another custodian.

The board granted permission to install a fence-screen at the junior high baseball diamond so the players bench will be behind a screen. The work will be done by the Little League club.

The one- and five-year vocational-technical education plan for the district was adopted as presented. This plan calls for some oriented occupations courses to be added to the curriculum.

The board canvassed the just for a joke, but we couldn't votes from the School Board go through with it, so we took it out," a spokesman for Miss Quant's Ginger Group said.

The new Quant clothes are nearly all in knit jersey, worn without bras and outlining every skinny curve.

Methodists Move To Heal Breach With Catholics

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The United Methodist Church moved Tuesday night to heal a centuries-old breach with the Roman Catholic Church.

The general conference of the 11 million-member Protestant denomination adopted a resolution calling for reinterpretation of historic articles of faith containing derogatory references to the Catholic Church.

The references were in the 39 articles framed by the Church of England in 1583.

The resolution, proposed by a theological study commission headed by Dr. Albert C. Outler of Perkins School of Theology in Dallas, Tex., does not recommend revision of the language of the historic articles.

It does call for Methodists to keep in mind that the articles were formulated in "a time of reckless strife."

In adopting the resolution, the conference noted "this implies, at the very least, our heartfelt offer of good will and Christian brotherhood to all Roman Catholic brethren in the avowed hope of a day when all bitter memories will have been redeemed by the gifts of the fullness of Christian unity."

In another break with tradition, the conference adopted a resolution calling for the seating of young people with conference delegates for the first time.

Five college-age men and women were immediately seated as nonvoting delegates.

They are Diane Coffey of Presque Isle, Maine; Tom Adams of Middletown, Ohio;

Barbara Metzger of St. Paul, Minn.; Dave Harvin of Chapel Hill, N. C., and Larry Ekin of Bloomington, Ill.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Tick Bites Transmit
Spotted Fever Organism

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Rocky Mountain spotted fever is proving to be a misnomer in that it has recently been reported in several Midwestern and Eastern states. It is caused by a microorganism that is only slightly larger than a virus—Rickettsia rickettsii—and is transmitted by the bite of a tick. Many doctors prefer to call this disease tick-borne typhus. Wood ticks carry the germ in the Southwest and dog ticks in the East. Spring and summer are the seasons of greatest risk.

From three to ten days after the tick bite, the victim gets a headache, chills, fever and muscular aching in the arms and legs. Some three to six days after the onset, a measleslike rash and extreme exhaustion develop. Early treatment with aureomycin or terramycin will bring about a prompt cure of this very serious disease.

The best treatment, however, is prevention. When traipsing around in a tick-infested area, you should wear hunting boots and a shirt with tight cuffs. Your outer garments should be impregnated with a tick repellent, such as diethyltoluamide or dimethylphthalate. At the end of the day, make a careful search of your body for ticks. Attached ticks should be removed gently with a forceps. A quick tug may leave the head imbedded in your skin. Don't crush the tick, as this may leave germs on your fingers—burn it instead. The point of attachment should be swabbed with alcohol or a strong antiseptic.

A protective vaccine is available. To be effective, it must be taken four or five weeks before exposure but the immunity is short-lived.

Q—in a recent column, you advised against washing an electric blanket in an automatic washer or having it dry cleaned. How should it be cleaned?

A—Your best bet is to protect the blanket from becoming soiled insofar as possible. When you feel that it must be cleaned, wash it gently by hand and let it drip dry. Wringing or squeezing it or washing it in a washing machine may cause breaks in the wiring and lead to a short circuit and possibly fire. Dry cleaning may damage the insulation.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

The Delta Project, a flood control plan scheduled for completion in this decade, will add more than 25,000 of reclaimed land to Netherlands territory.

'Bumpy' Table Top May Need Refinishing

By POLLY CRANE
DEAR POLLY—Mrs. T. might try the following on her "bumpy" table top—it is according to information from the extension service of a large university: Sprinkle mineral oil on the top and then ground pumice (both can be bought at a drug store). Then use a flat, black-board eraser or a piece of wool wrapped over a wooden block and rub with the grain of the wood. This will not hurt the table. Take a clean, dry piece of wool (a wool sock over the hand is ideal) to polish the piece. I learned this while taking an extension course.—DARLENE

DEAR GIRLS—When there is an all-over mass of hairline cracks or the "bumps" are really warped veneer on a top, a complete refinishing of the entire surface is the only real remedy. The cloth used to remove the oil and pumice could also be dipped in boiled linseed oil, using light strokes going with the grain in the wood. Then protect the blades.

Do not fold scarves. Wrap them around empty tubes that come with paper towels, waxed paper and so on. No more wrinkles.
Put a rubber jar bag under each the corners of your pastry board and the board will not slip around when you are rolling out dough.—MARY J.
DEAR POLLY—A one-quart measuring pitcher makes an ideal deep bowl to use when mixing pudding, whipping cream, etc. This eliminates an extra measuring cup.—MRS. J.

three of spades and down went South.

Generous George would have made the contract. He would have let East hold the first spade trick and let West win the second. This way, he would get one less spade trick but he would shut out West's last two spades and make the game.

Wouldn't this play have been silly if West had opened a four-card spade suit? Yes, indeed! But the odds are that West would open his partner's suit rather than a four-carder of his own.

Sometimes it doesn't pay to take a trick. West was well-aware of this and had no trouble beating South's three no-trump.
He decided not to open his partner's suit and put the five of spades on the track. East produced the queen and South could not wait to win the trick with the ace, since that play gave him two sure spade tricks.
But it didn't help him with his main objective, which was to make three no-trump.
He led a diamond to dummy's king. If East had refused that trick, South could have abandoned diamonds, started on clubs and wrapped up nine tricks. But this was one time when East wasn't going to wait. He played his ace and continued with the six of spades.
South false-carded with the Jack but the play was futile. West refused to win that trick.
At this point, South could take three diamonds and three hearts for an eight-trick total but there was no way to get the magic number of nine without attacking clubs. He did not. Three diamonds and then let dummy's nine of clubs but more East wasn't waiting. He came the ace. Down came the

Strike Fuels Drive For Postal Reform

Editor's Note: Postal reform seems larger, but Americans are still asking: Why is our mail service so lousy? This comprehensive account answers that question and details what postal reform will mean.

By MARK BROWN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — For almost two centuries the grumpy men had lived by their credo, taken from the ancient Greece of Herodotus: "Neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night shall stay these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds."

And when, for the first time in the nation's history, the mails did not move, the U.S. Post Office could blame neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night.

Instead, it was a combination of everyday issues—wages, working conditions and advancement—that brought last month's mail-snarl, wildcat walkout by 185,000 of the Post Office's 750,000 employees.

It brought into focus as never before the rickety postal system that affects every American who mails a letter, subscribes to a magazine, pays his taxes.

And it fueled a drive to drastically overhaul the Post Office Department.

The House Post Office Committee opened hearings Tuesday on Nixon's plan to set up a new U.S. Postal Service "insulated from direct control by the President, the Bureau of the Budget and Congress."

But against the backdrop of coming postal reform—and the prospect of higher postal rates—Americans are asking ques-

What is wrong with the American mail service? What could make a letter mailed to an address fewer than 100 steps away take days to deliver? What makes magazines and newspapers arrive days and even weeks stale, packages reach their destinations late with contents often bruised or broken and vital business communications dribble tardily in?

"It's the system," answers Winton A. (Red) Blount, the tall, rawboned Alabamian whom Nixon appointed postmaster general and assigned the task of reshaping the postal service.

The system Blount decries still retains vestiges of the Post Office created by the First Continental Congress in 1775 and entrusted to the first postmaster general, Benjamin Franklin.

Over the ensuing 195 years, the Post Office has become enmeshed in a snarl of rules, regulations and laws that places responsibility with the Postmaster General but the purse strings with Congress, puts politics ahead of performance and has resulted in a postwar budget deficit of nearly $17 billion.

Faced with a mushrooming burden of mail—the volume has risen from 71 billion pieces in fiscal 1965 to 82 billion in fiscal 1969—the Post Office has responded by reflex: add more men.

While productivity in American industry has risen at an average rate of 3.4 per cent a year, postal productivity has inched along at two-tenths of 1 per cent a year.

One reason is a lack of work boosting machines. The average investment per postal worker is $1.145 while the similar figure for the telephone and telegraph industry is $35.630 for power utilities $151,710, transportation $25,053, manufacturing $7,170 and merchandising $2,836.

"Airmail was the last major innovation in the Post Office Department and that was 52 years ago," said a postal official.

The massive increase in mail volume has forced postal officials to plug the service gap with substitutes and part time employees—most of whom are called in to handle the after 5 p.m. rush.

"Congress has passed a law setting a ratio of one career substitute for every five regular postal employees," said James Rademacher, head of the National Association of Letter Carriers. "There is now on the rolls one substitute for every 2½ regulars. Half of them are temporary. It's been going on for years."

Much of the Post Office's logistics problems can be traced to the public's mailing habits. More than half of a typical large-city post office's volume is received in the two hours after 5 p.m.

"When that after 5 crush hits, you've got to do 24 hours' work in two hours," said a Post Office Department spokesman. Business, which accounts for 75 per cent of all mail, is the worst offender, department officials said.

The two centuries of neglect have fallen heavily upon those postal stalwarts whose functions have remained virtually unchanged from the days of Benjamin Franklin—the nearly 200,000 mail carriers and the more than 300,000 postal clerks who still sort by hand the letters and parcels they stuff into antiquated pigeon-holes. And among the first to admit it is the Post Office itself.

"Personnel relations in the Post Office are back in the 19th Century," said Kenneth A. Housman, assistant postmaster general for personnel. "Progressive, modern personnel relations have completely bypassed the Post Office."

"In the past the Post Office could count, by virtue of their no-strike status, on the loyalty of its people. It offered security. When you take away the right to strike, you must provide your people with the best possible personnel plan. Instead, they have been literally nicked and dimed to death."

Before last month's strike, a starting postal worker made $6.176 a year—less than a New York garbage collector or a Washington, D.C. bus driver. Post-strike legislation gives postal workers pay raises totaling 14 per cent.

In stereotype, the mailman is in constant danger from unfriendly dogs and too friendly housewives. To the mailman, there are other dangers—and they're no joke.

Carriers in urban slums have been attacked and robbed of welfare checks or credit cards with increasing frequency. In New York they often arm themselves or walk their routes in pairs.

"Welfare day," lamented one New York carrier, "is pure hell."

In addition to low pay and physical danger, nearly three-fifths of salaried postal employees have risen only five steps toward the top of a 21-step career ladder.

Present Post Office officials blame the low grade job cluster on past politics.

The walkout by Postal union workers—the first massive revolt against the federal government by its employees—shattered the indifference that usually attends postal matters in Congress; the negotiations that followed apparently convinced the unions collective bargaining with management can produce as good or better results as lobbying key congressmen.

Unlike Nixon's postal corporation bill of last year, the current reform proposal was shaped as much by the unions as the administration.

"I want this bill out this month, enacted this month and signed this month," Rademacher declared. "I hate to say this because it sounds like I'm trying to pressure Congress, but if we don't have a bill very soon, I'm afraid we'll have another uprising."

Considered the heart of the bill by union and Post Office officials alike is the collective bargaining provision. Strikes still would be illegal, but negotiating impasses would be settled through binding arbitration.

The reform measure crumbles another cornerstone of the prison confining postal operations—the inability of the Post Office to come up with money to finance modern physical facilities and introduce large scale mechanization.

The bill authorizes the postal system to set up to $10 billion in bonds for capital improvements. Three years ago, when he warned "The Post Office is in a race with catastrophe," former Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien estimated a minimum of $5 billion was needed just to bring postal facilities up to date.

Most larger cities, where the bulk of the nation's mail is handled, have facilities built in the 1930s or earlier.

Meanwhile, in all but a handful of the 33,000 post offices throughout the nation, men and women still shoulder heavy mail sacks and perform the mind-boggling routine of sorting.

Utilization of available technology has been slowed by lack of funds. Among the weapons in the Post Office's electronic arsenal is a machine called the optical character reader that can read up to 43,000 addresses an hour, provided they conform to a certain format. But with a price tag exceeding half a million dollars, only 10 are in operation now, with 10 more scheduled for installation this year.

Now in experimental stages is a machine to read coded symbols imprinted on envelopes by operators. Widespread use could enable mail to be sorted down to the order of individual patrons along a carrier's route—not at the post office of distribution, but at the post office of collection.

Yet, even as postal researchers tinker with money-saving machines, the postal deficit mounts. This fiscal year alone, the department lost $1.2 billion.

The President said his new reform plan would put the postal system on a self-paying basis by 1978. He asked Congress to boost first-class letter rates from 6 cents to 8 cents. This would be the fourth postal rate increase in 11 years.

Getting a postage increase through Congress now takes an average of 20 months. Under the postal reorganization plan, the governing nine-man commission would set rates, subject to congressional veto, in one-tenth the time.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Ma Out Of Step As Time Marches On

It usually comes as a surprise. Perhaps young Johnny asks to borrow the car keys and you suddenly wonder where this strange young man came from anyway. After all, isn't your Johnny where he belongs—out under the maple tree playing with his toy racing set?

And then you ask yourself, "Where has the time gone?" There's no need to panic because it happens to everyone sooner or later. Perhaps the real problem is that we don't ask the question soon enough. At this point, however, it doesn't really matter where the time has gone. The important thing to remember is that you still have some time left.

You know you're living in the past if:

- You keep the scissors and steak knives on the top kitchen shelf and you need to stand on a chair to reach them but your children don't.
- Your son is eight inches taller than you and therefore you must look up at him when he says, "You still treat me like a baby."
- Your daughter thought the pretty doll you got her for her birthday was a "joke" present.
- The children ask you to play cards and you bring the Old Maid deck to the table and find them sitting there with poker chips.
- You clean out the kitchen cupboards and realize the cans of junior baby food you keep for emergency are four years old.

- You wash out three jelly jars to hold the first dandelions of summer and none of your children bring you a bouquet.
- You stop in the toy department to look at tricycles and your son says impatiently, "The two-wheelers are over here!"
- The doctor prescribes TWO aspirins every four hours when your daughter has the flu and you crush out both tablets and mix them with applesauce.
- Your son says, "Mother, I know you bought it especially for me but I just CAN'T carry a lunch box with Batman painted on it!"
- Your daughter says, "Taking vitamins shaped like little animals embarrasses me!"
- You still save clothing for younger children to "grow into" even though they are now wearing the same sizes as the older children.
- You bought marshmallow eggs as usual at Easter and nobody ate any.
- You expected a handmade card on your birthday and your son gave you a $15 bottle of perfume.
- Your children are packing their luggage for college and you suggest they include extra underthings, "just in case you have an accident."

"I imagine on a flight around the world the movie would be a double feature!"

UNITING FOR PEACE

The United Nations' peace-keeping record is uneven. Highlights of the past quarter-century include halting the 1947 India-Pakistan war over Kashmir, the reprise in 1965 and the 1948-49 Palestine war. The first international peace force went to the Mideast in 1956. The Korean war was officially a U.N. effort under the "United for Peace" resolution, adopted while the Soviets were boycotting the General Assembly. But never again has the United Nations been able to act when great powers are directly involved. It has had to stand aside in Hungary in 1956, Czechoslovakia in 1968 and in Vietnam. U.N. forces are currently stationed along the Suez, in Cyprus and Korea.

PLAYS GOLF WITH JOE NAMATH

BY LEE MUELLER
MARCO ISLAND, Fla. (NEA) — The guy poked me with his finger and said, "Now, boy, if you write a piece about playing golf with Joe Namath, I want you to be sure and tell how you stuck that nine-iron in the ground. I saw you do it, boy, so tell everybody how you stuck that nine-iron in the ground. You hear, boy? You tell 'em."

All right. O.K. I stuck the lousy nine-iron in the ground. Good grief. I never asked to play golf with Joe Namath, anyway. Big deal.

I was raised to believe that if a man lives a decent life, eats a good breakfast and minds his manners, things like playing golf with Joe Namath will never happen to him. This is not true.

The occasion was an 18-hole pro-amateur golf tournament at the Marco Island Country Club. Joe Namath wore pink bell-bottoms, a turquoise shirt and shoulder-length hair. I wore my seven-year-old golf shoes and a green sweater my mother gave me for Christmas.

This epic meeting occurred on the first tee at about 12:30 p.m.—in deference, I'm sure, to what golfer Jimmy Demaret said about Namath's storied hangovers. "Why, Joe doesn't get sick (that's not his word) until 10:30," Demaret said.

About 1,000 people surrounded the first tee. Namath chatted glibly with our pro, Doug Sanders, and then shook hands with me. "Lee Mueller," I said. He nodded. He knew I knew.

Namath and Sanders teed off on it was my turn. I was listed as "L. Mueller" on the timetable, so the public address announcer introduced me as Leonard. Standing over the ball, I passed first through a stage of extreme nausea and wound up totally blind on my backswing. I honestly did not see the ball, but somehow the club-head hit it and knocked it out past Sanders' and Namath's drives. The crowd made a little noise, I think.

Drunk with happiness, I walked off the first tee, chatting with Namath beside me. I had once interviewed him. He said: "I thought I'd seen you around." Me! Imagine. Joe Namath had seen me around.

The gallery brought me back to earth.

In golf, the men farthest from the hole always hit first. Sanders hit his second shot and the gallery moved around Namath. I waited patiently, 10 yards in front of him. Whack. Namath hit his second shot and it was like a dynamite explosion setting off a cattle stampede. The crowd rolled out in front of me, then around me and finally through me. I stood, bewildered, while Joe informed them of my existence.

Then I chucked my second shot in a sand trap. The day wore on and my game grew worse. Namath's got better. On one occasion, however, I looped my drive into the fairway while everyone else somehow missed it.

"You're going to have to hold us up, Lee," Namath shouted. Imagine. I could see it all so plainly...We're in the Jets' huddle, Joe and me. It's late in the game and we need a touchdown.

"You're going to have to hold us up, Lee," says Joe.

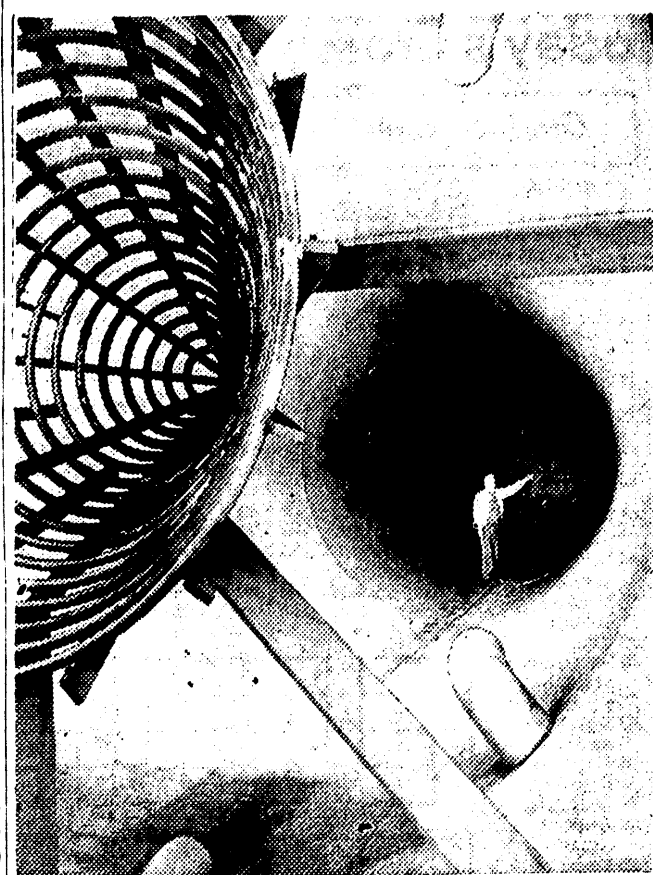

I hooked my second shot over a tree. It was horrible like that until the 14th hole, a short par five. I skulled my first two shots, hit a seven-iron on the green and, glory, I made a birdie. At 15, a short par three, I knocked a nine-iron 12 feet from the cup and, happiness, holed my second straight birdie.

The gallery stirred. A couple of old ladies called me by my first name. I looked Doug Sanders straight in the eye for the first time. I poked my drive 10 million miles on No. 16.

Retired jockey Eddie Arcaro, riding in Namath's golf cart, yelled, "Hey, Lee, you holdin'?"

I laughed suavely. "Yeh," I said, imitating Namath. "Savin' for the stretch, Eddie. You know about that sort of thing," He smiled.

Then I stuck the lousy nine-iron in the ground.

Ashland Club Elects Slate

ASHLAND — The Ashland Woman's club held its regular meeting Tuesday, April 14, in the library club room. Mrs. Sinclair Savage, president, opened the meeting with the pledge to the flag.

Members stood for a moment of silent prayer in tribute to the memory of Mrs. Ralph Robinson, who died recently.

Mrs. M. B. Plattner, co-chairman of the ways and means committee, reported that $346 had been received from the round robin bridge tournament.

All play should be completed during the month of April so that all money can be presented to the treasurer and prizes awarded at the May luncheon.

Mrs. Albert Yancy reported on the Heart Fund drive conducted by the Woman's club and thanked all members who solicited for funds.

Mrs. Savage gave the report for the March of Dimes drive also conducted by the Woman's club.

Mrs. Lloyd Flinn read the report of the nominating committee. As there were no nominations from the floor, the following persons were elected to serve for two years: Second vice president, Mrs. W. S. Campbell; recording secretary, Mrs. Albert Yancy; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. W. R. Campbell; treasurer, Mrs. Doyle Taylor.

Department chairmen elected were conservation, Mrs. Vernon Salade; fine arts, Mrs. Tom Dineen; press and publicity, Mrs. Alf Anderson; public affairs, Mrs. Stuart Brownback; social, Mrs. Bernice Hayes and Mrs. Roy Stice.

The report of the 20th district IFWC board meeting in Jacksonville was given by Mrs. Savage. She reported that the department of conservation had purchased Lincoln Lodge Boys Town near Grafton, which was formerly supported by the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. All clubs in the 20th district had participated in the IFWC Community Improvement project.

The district convention of the IFWC will be held Friday, April 17, at the Holiday Inn East in Springfield. Since this is the 75th year for IFWC, an award will be given to the member with the longest continuous membership. Mrs. Wm. R. Campbell has been a member of the Ashland Woman's club since 1920 and her name has been submitted.

The IFWC State convention will be held at the Sherman Hotel in Chicago May 5, 6 and 7.

Mrs. Tom Dineen announced that the May luncheon will be held Saturday, May 2, at the Beef and Bird in the Dunlap Motor Court in Jacksonville. Program will be a style show with fashions from the Fashion Gate, Miller's Hat Shoppe and Ruth Jean's.

Mrs. Homer Butler, home life chairman, presented Mrs. George Purvines of Pleasant Plains, who gave a very interesting review of the book, Memoirs by Arthur Krock. Hostesses for the social hour were Mrs. Fred Walbaum, Mrs. W. R. McMillan, Mrs. Rose Hinds, Mrs. Helen Farmer, Mrs. Stuart Brownback, Mrs. David Chatara and Mrs. Reuben Boynton.

ROODHOUSE CLUB ELECTS SLATE

ROODHOUSE — The Roodhouse Women's club met Friday, April 17, at the local Christian church with the president, Mrs. Harvey Hodge, presiding. Mrs. W. O. Harp, departmental chairman of gardens and beautification, presented Mrs. Chester A. Thomason of Jacksonville, who showed slides and furnished commentary on the subject, Flowers Here and There. Members brought garden plants for roll exchange.

Election of officers was held during the business session. Miss Ardath Short, chairman of the committee, presented a slate of officers which was accepted by the group.

Elected were president, Mrs. Harvey Hodge; first vice president, Mrs. Wayne Spencer; second vice president, Mrs. Fred Strang; recording secretary, Mrs. Verna B. Taylor; corresponding secretary, Miss Rella Backus; treasurer, Mrs. W. O. Harp; and press secretary, Mrs. F. D. Allman.

Miss Short discussed arrangements for the club's trip to Springfield at which time State Representative Jerry Corbett will meet with the women and conduct them on a tour of the city. Dinner will be served at the Heritage House, where installation of officers will be held.

Friday afternoon's hostesses were Mrs. Nona Fry, Mrs. Bertha Welch, Mrs. Fred Battershell, Mrs. J. V. Hawk, Sr., Mrs. Anna Roe, Mrs. Elmer Silvernail, Mrs. Howard Thompson, Mrs. Oliver Jasper.

By 1868 Vienna ruled a European domain—the Austro-Hungarian Empire—second in size only to Russia's. The realm encompassed 11 official languages and as many inhabitants—almost 50 million—as could then be counted in the United States.

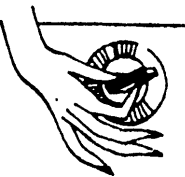

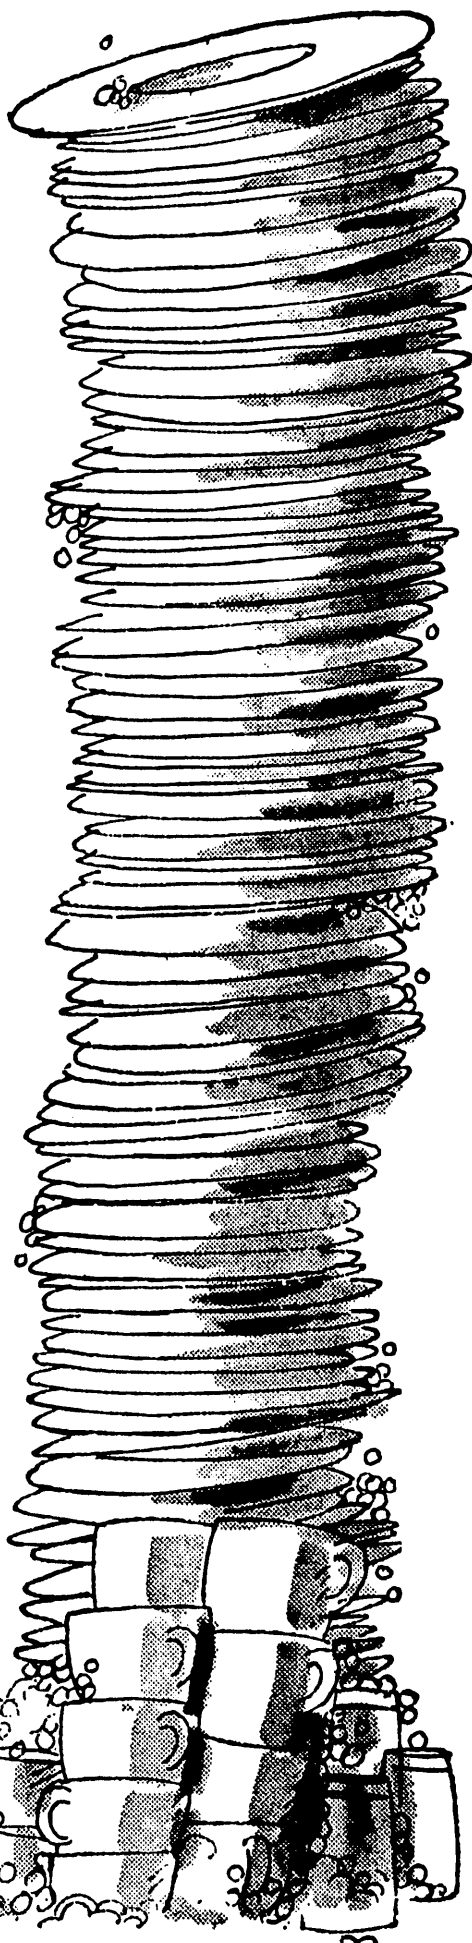

What's a nice girl like you doing in a place like this?

Why not let an automatic dishwasher take you away from it all? Away from all the drudgery of washing more than 30,000 dishes a year. Away from the 300 or more hours you spend bending over the kitchen sink.

A modern automatic dishwasher can help you be the nice person you really are. You can flip a switch and relax with the family after dinner. You can enjoy your nice, neat kitchen because dishes are tucked away out of sight in the dishwasher as they're used during the day. And you can enjoy nice, pretty hands again.

A portable dishwasher can be in your kitchen, doing your dishes and pots and pans tonight. No installation needed. See your appliance dealer today. Any questions? Just ask your Home Economist at Illinois Power.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Two events at this year's Academy Awards held special significance about the new state of the film industry:

When "Midnight Cowboy" was proclaimed the best picture of the year, the award was claimed by its producer, Jerome Helman.

When Gig Young won the Oscar for best supporting actor because of "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?" he saved his most lavish thanks for the head of the producing company, Martin Baum.

Both Helman and Baum are onetime agents.

A few years ago, a local sage made the remark: "Blessed are the deal makers, for they shall inherit the film industry." His prediction appears to be coming true, at least in part. A glance over the production ranks shows that former agents are assuming ever-increasing power in movie production.

The head of the new Warner Brothers management team is Ted Ashley, who once ran one of the biggest talent agencies in show business. Since 1962, Universal has been run by MCA, which used to be called "the octopus" because of its control of film talent. By government decree MCA went out of the agency business after the studio purchase.

Martin Baum, agent for Gig Young and other stars, now heads the movie enterprises of ABC. Herb Solow, vice president in charge of production at MGM, once worked for the William Morris Agency.

The agent once occupied the lowliest position in the Hollywood hierarchy. He was considered a necessary evil, a sharpie who hustled jobs for his clients and collected his 10 per cent commission in money or blood.

That concept began to change in the 1930s with the advent of Myron Selznick. Embittered because he believed the film bosses had bankrupted his father, Lewis J. Selznick, Myron sought revenge by demanding outrageous terms for stars and directors. He attracted a huge talent list to his agency because of his effectiveness.

MCA had even greater success in the years following World War II. The giant agency was able to set up picture deals in which the producer, director, writer and stars were all MCA clients. It was a natural step to assume control of Universal.

Some agents have become producers by going into partnership with their clients. That was true of Harold Hecht, who was long associated with Burt Lancaster. In the case of the late Martin Melcher, the client was also his wife, Doris Day.

Other agents have ascended to producerhood by putting together packages and selling them along with themselves. Among the most successful was Lawrence Turman, who produced "The Graduate." The device also worked for Ingo Preminger, producer of the current hit, "MASH."

Spring's Approach Points Up Attractions Of Hermit's Life

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Oh, when daffodils wave their golden banners and tulips lift their colorful cups to catch the sunshine and the rain, I get the feeling I'd like to be a hermit. What a nice occupation that would be—at least during spring and summer. A hermit can get away from it all by being with it. My idea is to be a sociable hermit not an unsociable one. I welcome all mankind but still keep it at arm's length. I don't want to be a cave-dwelling hermit, because caves have an average year-round temperature of about 56 degrees, a mile chilly for antique bones. I want to be a hut-dwelling hermit and inhabit a comfortable stone hut in the shelter of vast trees by the side of a river or on whose surface nothing would be allowed larger than a canoe. The hut would contain a large meditation chamber, an open window, a perch for a singing bird, a mat by the fireplace for a hound dog to lie on, five bathrooms and three vice presidents. Naturally a hermit has to lead an orderly life or else he'd go to pot like ordinary people do. The way I've tentatively planned my schedule is this: Monday, Wednesday and Friday, available for public view and private consultation; Tuesday and Thursday, exercise days to be spent throwing rocks, incognito tanning himself on the beach and letting the sands of time slip through his happy fingers. Since it costs money to be a hermit, as it does to be anything else, I've decided to share my wisdom—at a price. Small questions asked by private individuals will be answered three for a quarter. Larger questions will be responded to at a flat rate of four bits each, paid in advance. Large corporations, such as the Ford Foundation, will be charged a consultation fee of a million dollars a year, plus a $500,000 further fee for any idea suggested to it, whether accepted or rejected. I would limit myself, in any case, to no more than seven ideas a year. At first I thought I would exclude the public from my weekend brooding sessions, but on second thought I decided that would be unfair to the tourists. So I'll let them in but erect a cautionary sign: "You're welcome to drop dollar bills in the wishing well, but, please, no coins. Their sound distracts the hermit." When winter threatens I'll also put out a sign saying "Hermit in hibernation—do not disturb." Then I'll put my three vice presidents on public welfare, sneak out alone on some dark night and follow the sound of honking geese flying south. I'm sure that in Miami Beach nobody would bother a hermit.

Kaufmann Sparks 7-5 Routt Count

VIRGINIA — Steve Kaufmann drove in four runs, including three in a decisive seventh inning, as Routt nanded Virginia a 7-5 PMSC Conference defeat Wednesday afternoon, re-venging a loss to the Redbirds Tuesday.

Lolich Blanks Cleveland, 5-0, For Fourth Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mickey Lolich scattered five hits and became the major league's first four-game winner this season Wednesday night, pitching Detroit to a 5-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Lolich struck out seven in running his record to 4-1 as the Tigers won their seventh straight. Sam McDowell, 2-2, was the loser.

The Tigers took a 1-0 lead with an unearned run in the fourth inning. Dick McAuliffe led off with a walk, went to second on a wild pitch, advanced to third when left fielder Roy Foster dropped Al Kaline's line drive and scored on a force play at second base.

A leadoff double by Elliott Maddox and a single by Cesar Gutierrez off the glove of first baseman Tony Horton gave the Tigers another run in the fifth. Jim Northrup tagged a two-run homer in the sixth and McAuliffe's single, a wild pitch and a single by Kaline gave the Tigers their final run in the seventh.

Cubs' Hundley Out Of Action For Three Weeks

CHICAGO (AP) — Star catcher Randy Hundley of the Chicago Cubs, injured in a play at the plate, Tuesday was placed on the disabled list for 21 days Wednesday.

Hospital examination disclosed Hundley suffered a partial ligament tear in his left knee in a collision with Carl Taylor sliding into home in Chicago's 7-4 victory over St. Louis. Dr. Jacob Suker, club physician, said there was no cartilage or internal damage to Hundley's knee and surgery would not be required, as originally feared.

Hundley's knee was placed in a cast and he is expected to leave Wesley Memorial Hospital Thursday.

Seaver Whiffs 19 To Equal Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Seaver tied the major league record with 19 strikeouts and set a record with 10 straight strikeouts Wednesday while pitching the New York Mets to a 2-1 victory over San Diego.

Nat's Cox Won't Knock 'Lucky' Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — Casey Cox acknowledges he's given up a lot of runs and has had to work out of a lot of tight jams. The Washington Senator pitcher concedes also that he doesn't mind being lucky as long as he wins.

Cox says he has supreme confidence in the hitters to get him the runs he needs.

"I'm convinced that when I walk out there they're going to get me at least five runs," said Cox after he won his third straight against no defeats Tuesday night. "I just have that confidence."

And get runs for Casey the Senators have. In the three games he's started this season, Washington has come up with a total of 27 runs, including seven Tuesday night against the New York Yankees, who collected five off Cox.

"That's the way it's been for me. I go out and pitch the best I can, and they get me the runs," he said.

Cox went 7-2-3 innings against the Yankees, giving up eight hits and five earned runs to bring his total on the year to 21 innings pitched in which he has allowed 30 hits and 10 earned runs for a 4.00 ERA.

Manager Williams said, however, he thinks Cox pitched well. The 6-foot-5 right hander hadn't been in a game for nine days, due mostly to the rainouts the Senators have suffered.

"He was rusty from not working," he said, "and he began to get tired so we lifted him."

With the score 7-3, Washington, in the eighth inning, the Yankees' Roy White doubled and Curt Fleury singled to score a run. At the plate was Danny Cater, who had collected three hits already.

Coach Wayne Terwilliger went out to talk to Cox, who then got Cater to pop up. Then out he came for Darold Knowles.

"We told him we wanted him to get Cater and then he was coming out," Williams said. "He did his job."

Jaycees Claim Benefit Action

The Jaycees held off a late Ambucs rally to nail down a 43-38 victory in the first annual Benefit Basketball game before some 500 spectators at the JHS Bowl Wednesday evening.

The winners led 10-6 after the first quarter and 29-22 at halftime. The Jaycees got with in 33-32 midway through the fourth quarter before falling back.

Pleanty of 'non-basketball' tactics were employed by both sides much of the evening, with wild costumes abounding.

Dave Batty had eight points, Don Winkelman seven, Dan Warcup six and Russ Kierl five for the winners, while Dale Sexton pumped in 14 and Ed Paulsen six for the losers.

Dr. Tom Stephens and Dr. Mike Biloz of MacMurray donated their services as officials. Ambucs president Charles Rice defeated Jaycees president Lowell McCulley 16-12 in a half-time free throw contest. The event is tentatively planned as an annual affair.

record in 1969 and the first three this year.

Bud Harrelson, who singled in the first inning and scored on Ken Boswell's double off the 396-foot sign in left-center field, drove in the winning run in the third with a triple to the right field corner after Tommie Agee led off with an infield hit.

Release Sites For State Prep Golf Tourney

Local and area high school golf teams have been assigned either to the Springfield or Quincy Districts, according to IHSA assignments released Wednesday.

A total of 353 downstate and suburban high schools have entered the annual series of golf tournaments to be held at 22 District centers on May 8 or 9. Each school may enter a maximum of seven players. While 11 players compete as individuals, a school will be considered for team competition if four or more players are entered. The team score is the total score of the four best performers.

From each of the District centers, the winning team and the two individuals who place first and second will advance to the State Final tournament to be held at the University of Illinois May 22-23. The Chicago Public High Schools Association will qualify its two best individual golfers and its best team for the State Finals.

The 16 teams assigned to the Springfield Griffin District (to be played at Lincoln Greens), which will be held May 8, are Carlinville, Chatham Glenwood, Elkhart, Girard, Greenview, Jacksonville, Jerseyville, Lincoln, Palmyra Northwestern, Petersburg, Portia, Rochester, Springfield High and Virden.

Teams assigned to the Quincy High District (to be played at Westview Golf Course), also May 8, are Beardstown, Bush-Havana, LaHarpe, Lewisown, Macomb, Macomb Western, Brown County, Nauvoo, Pittsfield, Plymouth, Christian Brothers, Quincy High, Rushville and Sciota Northwestern.

Belleville West is the defending team champion, with St. Charles finishing in the runner-up spot in 1969. Individual honors went to Terry Kegley of Danville High, with Tom Tinsley of Mt. Carmel runner-up.

Area Scuba Club Still Short Of Goal For Trip

The members of the Jacksonville Area Scuba Club JADE wish to thank all those who supported them in their money making drive to raise funds for their scuba diving trip to Florida which will occur the latter part of August.

The club raised about a fourth of what they needed for their trip through this drive. They do need to raise more money, and they are offering their services to the Public at this time to do any odd jobs that need to be done around the house and yard. The club members consist of 20 Jr. High and High School students who are able and willing to paint up or fix up a person's yard or house or whatever.

The boys are volunteering their services this Wednesday to go to Beecher Plaza to help the residents with their flower gardens. The boys are interested in doing things to benefit the community, so if anyone knows of work that needs to be done, please contact the club via the YMCA. Anyone interested in hiring the boys for odd jobs, soliciting volunteer work from them, or contributing to their fund for Florida, please contact the Y.

YMCA To Have St. Louis Trips

The YMCA is pleased to announce that it is including in its programming this summer a special trip to see the St. Louis Cardinal baseball team play the Chicago Cubs.

The trip will be by bus on Saturday May 16th and will only cost Y members $6 and non-Y members $10. Each person taking the trip will have a $3 reserved seat ticket for the game. Trippers will leave for St. Louis at 10 a.m. Saturday morning from the Y.

Everyone is encouraged to bring a sack lunch which will be eaten along the way. Reservations for this trip are being taken right now at the Y, so if anyone is interested please call the Y. The bus will return to Jacksonville immediately after the game is over.

Kessinger Guides Cubs Past Cards 7-5

CHICAGO (AP) — Don Kessinger's inside-the-park home run and two singles helped the Chicago Cubs score their seventh straight victory 7-5 over the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday.

Kessinger's blow which bounced back into the field off the centerfield stands came in the sixth after the Cards trimmed Chicago's lead to 5-4. Kessinger also singled across another run in the seventh to clinch the first victory in four starts for Ferguson Jenkins, a 21-game winner last season. Jenkins now stands 1-2.

Card rookie Leron Lee's first major league home run, a three-run clout in the fourth, and Joe Torre's leadoff homer in the sixth, kept the Cards in the contention after Chicago jumped to an early 4-0 lead.

Tell Details Of Saukee Grid Camp

PITTSFIELD — Don "Deek" Pollard, Pittsfield High school football coach, will direct and coordinate a football camp which will be held at Pine Lakes in Pittsfield.

The Saukee Football Camp which will include two ten-day sessions will run Monday through Friday from June 8 to June 19. The second session will begin on June 22 and end July 3. Each of the ten sessions will start at 9:00 a.m. and end at noon.

"Personally, I think a camp of this kind fits the need of our community and maybe the needs of surrounding communities very well. We plan to offer a top-notch instructional program which will include individual instruction in the all important areas of conditioning and body development as well as in the area of football. I think our young people are very interested in these areas, and been organized to meet these the Saukee Football Camp has needs and interests."

One NFL football coach, two well-known college coaches, and two local coaches will appear on the program with Pollard. Each visiting coach will spend one day at the camp.

Bob "Red" Miller, former AFL coach of the Boston Patriots in 1960-61, Buffalo Bills 1961, Denver Broncos 1963-65, and present line coach of the St. Louis Football Cardinals, will join Darrell Mudra — former head coach of the professional Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian League, North Dakota State, and Arizona University, and now Western Illinois University — and J. C. Caroline, former All-American halfback at Illinois and an All-Pro defensive back for the Chicago Bears, as guest speakers at the Camp. Mudra, who was "Coach of the Year-District 20", led the Leathernecks to the IIAAC title this year. J. C. Caroline, a 10-year pro with the Bears, is an assistant coach at the University of Illinois.

Two very popular and successful high school coaches, Wes Rayner of Pleasant Hill and Don Kemp of Triopia will make one day appearances. Rayner has been at the Pleasant Hill helm since 1965. His teams have been conference contenders in the Illinois Valley and more recently in the P.M.S.C. Conference. The veteran Don Kemp has 20 years of varsity experience that includes 112 wins, 8 ties, and 29 losses. Seven's teams have captured seven P.M.S.C. Conference titles.

The Saukee Football Camp, the only one of its nature in central Illinois, will offer supervised instruction in physical conditioning, weight-lifting and weight training, and fundamentals of football on a non-contact basis. Individual attention and instruction will be given in the areas of stance, passing, receiving, running, kicking, and punting. Techniques and fundamentals in blocking and tackling will be taught on a limited basis with bell dummies. No drills, fundamentals, or techniques will involve body contact.

Boys who will be in the sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth grades in the fall of 1970 are eligible to attend. Boys who are presently eighth graders and who will be ninth graders for the first time in the fall of 1970 are eligible to attend without any loss of eligibility in accordance with the IHSA rules.

Tuition for the 10 days of one session will be $27 for each boy. Boys may attend both sessions. The fee for tuition will also include the cost of accident insurance. In addition each boy will receive a football jersey, gym shorts, and a pair of football shoes. These items come with the $27 tuition fee. Each participant must provide only sweat socks and supporter. No transportation will be provided.

Applications will be mailed to area schools within two weeks. Boys may also register on June 5 or 8 for both sessions at Pine Lakes. The enrollment will be limited in order to provide individual attention to each boy.

Starting today boys age 9 through 12 in Jacksonville and the area may start registering for the first Pitch, Hit and Throw competition sponsored by big league baseball. Youngsters will have a chance to show how well they can handle a baseball and bat, with a chance to represent Jacksonville or the area at the Major League All Star Game in July.

Registration and entries will be accepted from now through May 16 at any participating Phillips 66 dealer. A parent or guardian must accompany the boys to register. The entire competition is absolutely free.

All a boy needs to compete is the desire to win. Everything else is provided—balls, bat, targets, measuring tapes.

Every boy who registers will receive a free Pitch, Hit and Throw "Tips" booklet which gives him the lowdown on how to get in shape for the competition and turn in his best performance.

Every boy who participates in the Pitch, Hit and Throw competition has an equal chance to win since he competes only against boys in his own age group. Points are awarded for each ball he can pitch into a target, for the distance he can hit a fair ball, and for the distance he can throw a ball down the foul line.

Thousands of boys will compete in local competitions all across the country, and every boy who participates receives an official PH&T participant's patch. Each local winner receives a PH&T plaque, a baseball warm-up jacket and winner's patch. The four winners of each local competition advance to one of the 56 District competitions.

There will be 224 District winners, 56 in each age group. Each winner gets a District PH&T plaque and winner's patch. Each District winner and one parent will travel to a major league city for the next level—the Division competition.

Each Division competition will be held in a major league ballpark on the field before the game. The four top Division winners, one in each age group, representing the National League and the four top Division winners representing the American League advance to the National PH&T Championship to be held at the All Star Game on July 14.

Each of the eight finalists and both of his parents will attend the banquet of champions prior to the final event, as guests of Phillips Petroleum Company. On the day after the competition, all finalists and parents will travel to Cooperstown, New York, for a tour of the Baseball Hall of Fame. All champions will have their names inscribed on a permanent Pitch, Hit and Throw plaque in the Hall of Fame.

Local and area Phillips 66 dealers participating in the event include Jess Suter's Walnut 66 and L&L 66 on West Morton in Jacksonville; McNeely 66 of Waverly, Clines 66 and Reynolds 66 of Virginia. Lindell's 66 of Chandlerville and Shannon's 66 of Arenzville.

Sutton Breezes To 9-2 Victory Over Montreal

MONTREAL (AP) — Don Sutton tossed a five-hitter and his Los Angeles teammates battered Montreal pitching for 14 hits as the Dodgers clipped the Expos 9-2 Wednesday night.

Sutton struck out six and posted his third victory of the season against one loss.

Los Angeles jumped in front in the fourth on a walk to Willie Crawford and Wes Parker's double to right field. The Dodgers added two more runs in the top of the fifth inning to take a 3-0 lead.

Lapchick: Knicks Have Good Chance

NEW YORK (AP) — The man who coached the New York Knicks the last time they reached the National Basketball Association final 17 years ago—and lost—thinks they have a better chance this time because of Willis Reed.

"We had a team equal in every respect, but no center to Reed's proportions," said Joe Lapchick, a member of basketball's Hall of Fame who coached the Knicks through their only other glory period from 1947 to 1956.

"If you're going up against a team with a center like Los Angeles with Wilt Chamberlain, you've got to have a center. The Knicks are better prepared going into this final series with Reed than we were. That's why I like their chances better than ours against George Mikan and Arnie Risen."

The Knicks and the Lakers open their best-of-seven final playoff series Friday night in New York.

The Knicks, who have never won an NBA title and hadn't won a regular season Eastern Division Title since 1953-54 until this season, lost in the final against Mikan and Minneapolis in 1951-52 and then against Risen and Rochester in 1952-53.

"Mikan was the main cause of our defeat the first time," Lapchick recalled. "He was hurt the next year and Rochester slipped in, but the center still beat us. Risen was the next best."

"Sweetwater Clifton and Connie Simmons, our centers, were pros, but no one jumped over fences to see them. Clifton was only 6-foot-5 and Simmons 6-7."

"We might have won it all then if we had a center."

Lapchick admitted his team's depth below the first six men was not as good as the present day Knicks, but he compared the rest of his team favorably.

Since World War II, more than 280,000 migrants have helped turn South Australia into the country's most industrialized state for its population. It leads in shipbuilding, smelting and lumbering. It operates one of the country's largest steel-making plants, rank high in automobile manufacturing and produces 70 per cent of Australia's wine.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
and HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, APRIL 23—
Born today, you are not one to jump the gun, no matter what is involved. You realize the importance of past experience, the need for knowledge of your field, and you are quite willing to wait until you have at least some of both before attempting to make real progress in your chosen career. Your middle years should be the proof of the pudding as success on every level of your life crowns the years of patient preparation.

You place great store in artistic achievement, your own or anyone else's. Indeed, there are those who believe that your only love is the arts, for you seem to place them—music, painting, literature, and the like—above all else, even above people. Take care, however, that you don't actually do so; otherwise, you may forfeit the affections of loved ones in the long run. Let art help cement relationships, not sunder them.

In your pursuit of personal happiness, you will ironically alienate yourself from many people. Those who mean most to you, however, will not allow themselves to be pushed aside for the sake of success. Ultimately, it is these people whom you will have to thank for the companionships of your mature years, for they will have determined that you not be alone.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Friday, April 24

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) —Take care not to tip your hand too soon. Keep the opposition guessing and you'll be better off in the long run.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21) —A satisfactory day for the Gemini who knows how to be alone to his own profit. Don't try to bring others in on the secret.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23) —Handle your money carefully at this time. You may be persuaded into making an unwise purchase unless you know your own mind.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23) —You can be of considerable help to one with little or no experience in the field. Make an effort to aid another's advancement.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23) —Be willing to accept whatever reward — or censure — comes your way for deeds recently done. Loved ones stand by you.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23) — This is not the day for coming to a final decision where romance is concerned. Leave yourself an opening; you may need it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 23) —The gift of wisdom should serve you well at this time. Don't be surprised should others come to you with problems.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) —elp a loved one solve a difficulty. You may be allowed to try your wings in the rarefied air of a new project. Don't hesitate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20) — Use special caution if you would keep from suffering losses this afternoon. Don't expect others to keep you out of trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21- Feb. 19) —It will take considerable know-how to keep from making a mistake today. Minor matters crop up for your attention.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21) —It is the thoughtful Pisces who makes a success of this day. Loved ones have special words for you now; listen carefully.

ARIES (March 22 - April 20) — It is the observant Aries who best makes his way among those who are less than friends at this particular time. Take it all in.

Twister Injures Two; Damages Ten Trailers

State police reported two persons were injured and 10 trailers damaged yesterday by a tornado which struck the Fulton area.

The twister was spawned by a western storm that triggered violent weather in other sections of northwestern Illinois. Hail up to an inch in diameter pelted Dixon, Rochelle, Oregon and Lanark as a line of thunderstorms approached. Electrical service was interrupted in Lanark.

State police said a twister touched down at the southern edge of Fulton and overturned or ripped apart 10 trailers at the Sikema Trailer Court. Authorities reported two persons hospitalized.

The storm, which whitened the ground from Whiteside to Kane counties with a brief but heavy fall of hail, headed eastward for the Chicago area. Pellets the size of golf balls struck Maple Park about 50 miles west of Chicago.

Strong southerly winds buffeted the state as the storm advanced and rain threatened to drench most of Illinois.

Afternoon highs in the 60s in the north and the 70s in the south were predicted.

Tonight's lows will be in the 40s in the northwest and the 50s in the southeast.

The rain was expected to diminish by Thursday but a mass of cooler air behind the developing storm promised to re-establish wintry conditions.

Double the figure because of those preparing to board the return flight. The total in one small area of the airport is now 2,400. But nearby, another 2,400 people are jammed at the gates because another 747 has landed.

The problem obviously cannot be solved by dispersing the people by automobile, because that would merely add to the congestion. The people movers say one of their systems is needed.

Goodyear, for example, is offering what it calls the Carvev system, which consists of a series of small bubble top vehicles, capable of seating about a dozen people as they move along on an endless rubber belt.

At the loading point the cars slow to a speed of 1 1/2 miles an hour, allowing a person walking at the same pace to step aboard easily. As the car moves onto a straightaway it speeds up to 15 miles an hour.

Westinghouse has a contract to build what it calls a Skybus system to the Tampa Airport. And a system called a Dash-A-Venor or automatic electric railway, is being considered for other airports.

Manufacturers of the new systems maintain there is an added advantage. Present mass transit systems, they say, are often unsuitable for large numbers of people, primarily the handicapped.

Nearly four million pounds of fish are caught at Florida's Lake Okeechobee annually.

Three other considerations—in addition to frequency of use—ought to guide decisions between purchase and rental. They are quality, storage and expense.

Quality—Many common items—particularly tools—come in a wide range of quality. Frequently, you can afford to rent a better quality than you can afford to buy.

A miter box used in cutting angles on moldings and picture frames is a good example. Accuracy is everything in a miter box, but a good one can cost $30. The householder's choice is often between renting an accurate one and buying a cheaper one almost guaranteed to do a poor job.

NEW YORK (AP) — As their streets and economic life become locked in traffic jams that sometimes grow tight as jigsaw puzzles, city administrators are now giving more serious consideration to revolutionary "people movers."

The term is perhaps not the best, but it does effectively encompass the wide range of conveyor belts, moving sidewalks, monorails, automatic railroads, subways and other means of moving masses of people short distances.

General Electric, Goodyear, Westinghouse and perhaps 100 smaller companies are involved. San Jose, Calif., is about to install a six-mile belt system. New York is considering a cross-Manhattan conveyor.

The primary problem of congestion remains associated with downtown areas of major cities, where dozens of roads disgorge thousands of automobiles that squeeze into a mass of noisy, polluted frustration.

At airports, where congestion already is bad, the situation could become almost impossible.

A hypothetical situation: A Boeing 747 terminates a flight and prepares for a return trip. About 400 passengers and crew get off and each is met by two persons. The total for one flight is now 1,200.

Double the figure because of those preparing to board the return flight. The total in one small area of the airport is now 2,400. But nearby, another 2,400 people are jammed at the gates because another 747 has landed.

Renting Merchandise Often Economical

By CARLTON SMITH and RICHARD PUTNAM PRATT

One of the handiest tools on earth is a saw. It will cut anything from a piece of Swiss cheese to a two-by-four into any shape. And it will do it with ease, speed and precision.

Thousands of these saws are sold annually to home workshop buffs. And most of them get used about twice a year.

And in case you are wondering where all this stuff is going to come from, take a good look around. Last year more than 10,000 rental agencies managed to do a business that grossed over $1 billion.

It's a reasonably good bet that nine out of 10 tool fanciers would be better off economically if they passed up purchase in favor of periodic rental. This principle isn't limited to saw-buyers either.

Almost any typical homeowner could live a richer life at a lower cost if he rejected the idea of outright purchase of many common items.

The idea of renting equipment in preference to buying it is hardly new. Most of the pioneers who went west in the 1800s did so in rented Conestoga wagons.

They realized what many a homeowner finds out the hard way—that when you need a piece of specialized equipment for a one-shot purpose, renting makes more sense than buying.

Conestoga wagons have gone out of style, but ordinary people still buy concrete mixers, wine presses, arc welders and ice cream makers in blithe disregard of probable frequency of use. The proof is in the classified section of any newspaper.

Ads for such merchandise characteristically state that the object is "like new" or "used twice."

Three other considerations—in addition to frequency of use—ought to guide decisions between purchase and rental. They are quality, storage and expense.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took its biggest loss in almost three months Wednesday in moderately active trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 9.50 to 762.61, the lowest since Feb. 18 when it fell to 756.80. The average had not lost as much since Jan. 29 when it tumbled 10.49.

Analysts attributed the sharp decline to a number of factors. They included a Cambodian request for massive military supplies, poor first-quarter earnings results by companies, investor concern over inflation, and a large number of bond offerings which have drawn investors away from the stock market.

On the New York Stock Exchange, declines outnumbered advances by 1,116 to 226 among the 1,589 issues traded.

Volume on the New York exchange rose to 19.7 million shares from 8.49 million on Tuesday.

The market attempted a recovery in late trading. The Dow Jones average, down 9.50 at 1 p.m., cut its loss to 6.41 half an hour before closing, but the effort rapidly faded away.

The Associated Press 60-stock average fell 2.7 to 267.8, with industrials off 4.4, rails and utilities off 1.2 each. The New York exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks was down .67 to 46.47. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index dropped 1.11 to 84.27.

All of the 20 most-active issues on the New York exchange declined.

Park, Davis, down 1 1/2 to 21 1/2, was the most-active issue. There were 72 blocks of 10,000 or more shares traded compared with 43 Tuesday.

Closing prices on the New York Exchange included Square D, own 1 1/4 to 4 1/4; Sybron down 3/4 to 30 1/4; International Nickel, down 1 1/4 to 42 1/4; Leasco, down 1 1/2 to 13 1/2; and Memorex, down 7/8 to 9 7/8.

The American Stock Exchange index slipped .33 to 22.92. Declines led advances 774 to 125 among the 1,075 issues traded. Volume rose to 3.5 million shares from 2.5 million Tuesday.

Prices in the complex and in major grain futures were strong on the opening, with oil and meal futures again soaring to new highs for the season.

But at this point, selling of a speculative nature as well as profit-taking on a brief long spurt, entered, and prices fell.

At the close, wheat was 1/4 cent a bushel lower to 1 1/2 higher. May 1.49 1/4; corn was unchanged to 1/4 lower, May 1.26; oats were unchanged to 1/4 cent higher, May 65 1/2 cents; rye was 1/4 to 2 1/2 lower, May 1.09; and soybeans were 7/8 to 1 1/2 lower, May 2.64 1/2.

Trade was mixed, with public participation particularly high in the early portion of the session. The soybean complex was most active.

Cheating Guide Worries London Officials

By GRANVILLE WATTS
Associated Press Writer
LONDON, (AP) — A guide to good cheating has been published here which tells you how you can live for free in London. Called "Counter Culture", the book gives hints on the best places to rest, eat and drink without spending a penny. The book recommends the 18-story New Zealand House as a good resting place because of its "panoramic views" across Central London. It also favors the banking hall of Harrod's giant department store which, it says, "has something of the air of a London club."

ing is to become a voluntary patient at a mental hospital. This costs the state $120 a week and "the food is good," the book says. Scotland Yard has shown an interest in the book because it also offers advice on how to lift a sweater without paying at London stores. And the post office is not amused at hints on how public telephones can be swindled. The book (published by Peter Owen) claims to be the first comprehensive study of the "counter-culture" movement. One drawback is the price of the book—$10.80. Joseph Berke, who edited the book, says he hopes a paperback version will be produced so that those who need it most could afford it. He had no suggestions on how to get a free copy. THE WORLD TURNED UP-SIDE DOWN. By William Rayner. Morrow. $5.95. Most of the novels we read about the American Revolution have an orientation toward the colonial side. This one, by an English author of adventure stories, centers around a British officer. Maj. James Blackford is with a small British raiding force in the wilderness of Virginia, in 1781. A plantation owner who has been posing as a Tory, but actually is a rebel, betrays his force. There is an ambush. Blackford is wounded and barely escapes with his life. He is nursed back to health by a girl and her father, who are neutrals in the conflict. Realizing that the rebels will find him before long, the British officer disguises himself as a slave by staining his skin. The rest of the tale is a rather harrowing account of Blackford's journey toward the British lines. He is picked up by a pair of renegades who have served with, and deserted from, both the British and colonial forces. Before long the dark-skinned Blackford very nearly is killed for a brutal crime committed by his captors. The story has modern implications in its passages about slavery, but primarily it is an adventure story. It is competently done. Miles A. Smith

THERE'S HOPE. Bob Hope and actress Barbara Eden get set for a ride in the comedian's new golf cart, which is a facsimile of his famous profile.

VIRGINIA GI AWARDED MEDAL

Nine City Employees Absent From Work

Nine employees of the City Light and Power Department left their jobs after each man called in sick within a 20-minute period shortly after 1 p.m. Wednesday. All are members of the department's general line crew.

Department Supervisor Robert Jameson said last night he has no reason to believe that the sick calls were in fact a walkout, but reported that outside line crews are being called in to maintain service in cases of emergency.

"To my knowledge there were no grievances from any of these people," Jameson said. "The absences do not relate to any contracts and do not point that way." He reported contracts for some departmental employees are under consideration but none related to the absences.

Although he could not call the action a strike or a sick-out, Jameson said he does find it unusual for this number of employees to get sick in one particular group. His office has not received any complaints or grievances from any of the personnel involved, he stated.

Illinois Power, CIPS Merger Plan Terminated

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Illinois Power Co. and Central Illinois Public Service Co. have terminated plans for corporate affiliation of the two utilities, it was announced Tuesday.

A joint statement said divestment of both companies' gas properties "cannot now be accomplished without material injury to our stockholders and customers."

The proposed affiliation was approved by the Illinois Commerce Commission and Securities and Exchange Commission, subject to the provision that both utilities divest their gas properties.

"We are postponing any further action in the matter until such time, if ever, that a program of corporate affiliation can be carried out on a basis which would not have such adverse effects," the statement said.

The announcement was made by K. E. Bowen, CIPS president, and Wendell J. Kelley, Illinois Power president.

Under the proposal, Illinois Power would have exchanged .65 of a share of its common stock for each share of CIPS common stock.

Both companies provide electric and gas service in interlocking areas.

Private School Aid Bill Gets By Committee

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Two bills appropriating state funds for aid to non-public schools cleared the Illinois House Education Committee Wednesday by a decisive vote.

After a four-hour hearing in which supporters and opponents testified, the committee first approved 20-7 a bill backed by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie carrying a $29 million appropriation.

Sponsored by Rep. Edward J. Copeland, R-Chicago, the Ogilvie program calls for state payments of $60 per elementary pupil and $80 per high school student in private and parochial schools.

The second bill, submitted by Rep. John E. Matijevich, D-Waukegan, was approved 19-7. It provides $23.2 million to be paid at the rate of $48 for elementary and $60 for high school students.

Both bills advanced to the house floor for final votes. In the 1969 session, the bills passed the House but died in the Senate Education Committee.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—A bill to increase salaries of Illinois legislators $6,000 a year was withdrawn Wednesday by its sponsor.

Hart said Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie also should withdraw proposed salary increase for his department heads.

House members now receive $12,000 a year and mileage expenses. Senators who are elected in November will qualify for a raise from $9,000 to $12,000.

Summer Program For Griggsville Schools

The board of education of Griggsville Community School Unit No. 4 met April 16.

The results of the school board election were canvassed and recorded. Dr. Richard Hull received 54 votes and O. Dale Windmiller received 53. There were 54 registered voters, William E. Turnbull was reelected president; and Richard R. Myers, reelected secretary.

Mr. Turnbull appointed the following committees: farm, Richard Myers, chairman, with Bruce Lightle and Dale Windmiller; building, Richard Hull, chairman, with Dale Windmiller and John McLaughlin; transportation, Orville Gleckler, chairman, with Richard Myers and Bruce Lightle; Four Rivers Special Education, Bruce Lightle, voting delegate, and John McLaughlin, alternate.

Pay Raise
The salaries of substitute teachers were raised from $20 to $22 per day to remain competitive with surrounding schools. The salaries of substitute cooks were raised to $10 per day to comply with the minimum wage law. All non-certified personnel were rehired with salary increases. This includes the three custodians, for the following school year three cooks and two secretaries.

Donald Zabel, superintendent, was appointed to prepare a tentative budget for the district for the 1970-71 school year.

Summer "Head Start"
Approval was given for the Pike County Head Start program to use the school facilities for the summer program.

As additional money will be available from Title I, E.S.E.A., the board agreed to have summer school during the month of June from 9 a.m. until 12 noon without a tuition charge. Letters explaining the program were sent home with all elementary students in grades one through six on Friday, April 17. The summer program will include remedial work — individualized as much as possible — in the language arts area. This includes phonics, reading, spelling, English, and written communication. In order to submit the program for approval, parents will have to complete enrollment forms within a week to determine if there is enough interest to offer the program.

The board also agreed to offer a course in mechanical drawing during the summer. Anthony Zilic will teach the course, meeting two or three evenings a week, if there is enough interest. As this is not part of the program under Title I, a tuition charge of $10 for Unit No. 4 residents will be charged. Fifteen dollars will be charged for students residing outside the district.

School Patrol
Approval was given to initiate a school patrol for the 1970-71 school year. Students living east of Federal street will have to cross at Federal and Quincy streets. Students living south of Quincy street will have to cross at Stanford and Quincy. If they can be secured, two adult guards will be at these crossings.

It was reported that the new roof over the 1954 edition was completed during the past week.

All board members agreed to attend the Two Rivers Division meeting of the Illinois Association of School Boards at Quincy on Tuesday evening.

Cloud Memorial Award To Head Of Tracy Clinic

The Daniel T. Cloud Memorial Leadership Award was presented this month at a meeting of the Conference of Executives of American Schools for the Deaf, held at St. Augustine, Florida. The award went to Dr. Edgar L. Lowell, administrator at the John Tracy Clinic in Los Angeles, California.

Dr. Cloud, who died in 1962, was for many years superintendent at Illinois School for the Deaf in Jacksonville. The Cloud award is given annually to a leader in the area of the deaf, always at the annual conference.

The recipient this year has directed parent education programs, teacher training programs, world-wide correspondence program for parents and other research and demonstration projects.

Dr. Ray L. Jones, director of the Leadership Training Program, Area of the Deaf at San Fernando Valley State College, stated in making the presentation:

"Daniel T. Cloud was one of the deaf education's greatest leaders. His encouragement, guidance and vision have given to deaf education hundreds of dedicated men and women throughout America who carry on his great ideals of leadership and service to the deaf."

"Dan Cloud is appropriately identified with this (award) since his life so clearly exemplified the personal qualities which the Leadership Training Program in the Area of the Deaf attempts to instill in each of its participants and to perpetuate among its graduates."

Three Pay Fines In Circuit Court Wednesday

Circuit Judge Creel Douglass presided during Wednesday morning's court session and assessed fines in separate criminal matters before the court.

Donald F. Hazel, 35, of East Alton, Ill., entered a plea of guilty to driving while his license was revoked and was assessed a fine of $300 and 10 days costs.

Hazel was arrested by state police March 25.

George Petefish, 50, of Arenzville entered a plea of guilty to driving while under the influence of alcohol and was assessed a fine of $300 and 10 days costs.

Petefish was charged by state police on March 22.

Lyle E. Knox, 20, of 1056 S. Main entered a plea of guilty to illegal possession of liquor and was fined $100 and 25 days costs. He was arrested by state police March 22.

Lloyd Dawson, 30, of Douglas hotel entered a plea of guilty to deceptive practice and asked for probation. He was admitted to probation for a period of six months and ordered to make restitution for checks written plus pay court costs within the first 30 days.

Leap From Car Injures Youth

A 15-year old was admitted to Passavant hospital at about 6:40 p.m. Wednesday suffering possible head injuries received when he jumped from a fender of a moving car.

Driver of the auto, Danny Hocking, 16, of 927 Hackett, said the youth, Robert Willaughby, of 414 East Lafayette, jumped from the right front fender, landed on his back and rolled over.

A Passavant spokesman said the youth is in fair condition.

REPORTS STEREO TAPES STOLEN

Gale Rigger, employed at a city beauty shop, told police about $140 in stereo tapes were stolen from her car between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Wednesday.

She said about 20 tape cartridges were taken from the vehicle while it was parked on South Sandy street near the square.

Two Accidents On City Streets

Two accidents resulted in moderate damage to four vehicles Wednesday morning in separate locations.

At 8:12 a.m. a District 117 school bus driven by Sharon J. Beddingfield of 739 N. Prairie was making a right turn from Mound onto Lincoln avenue and struck a parked car owned by Tommy Hillig of Route 1, Chapin. Both vehicles received moderate damage and were driven from the scene.

An accident at 8:42 a.m. at West State and Pine involved a car driven by Hardin Lamular of 565 Cherry making a left turn onto State and colliding with a westbound auto driven by Bonnie D. Blimbing of Route 1, Murrayville.

Damage was moderate and there were no injuries in either incident.

hearty, cold deckside lunch pleases all hands! prepare it ahead

Whether it's a vacation or just a weekend outing, many of today's families spend a great deal of time out of doors. With a little advanced meal planning, Mom, too, can relax and enjoy the exodus to the wide, open spaces.

All outdoor activities produce hearty appetites. Because you may not have the time or facilities while you're on the go to cope adequately with these appetites, prepare as many dinner items at home as possible. Then, with your advanced organization, you can turn out gourmet treats with just a little time and effort.

A cold deckside lunch that is hearty enough to keep all hands nourished features Picnic Macaroni Salad, a recipe from the test kitchens of Carnation Company. Make it at home and bring it on board ready to eat. Cast this salad favorite with fried chicken and crispy relishes. Picnic Macaroni Salad is packed with all the good things that summer salads are made of... macaroni, celery, green pepper, cheese and kidney beans. A flavorful dressing made with Velvetized Evaporated Milk keeps it moist and delicious. Best part of all—it makes enough to serve eight to ten deck hands generously.

PICNIC MACARONI SALAD (Makes 8 to 10 servings)

- $\frac{3}{4}$ cup mayonnaise
- $\frac{3}{4}$ teaspoon hot dry mustard
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon prepared mustard
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon seasoned salt
- $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon pepper
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup lemon juice
- two-thirds cup undiluted evaporated milk
- 5 cups hot cooked macaroni
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped celery
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup finely chopped onion
- 3 tablespoons chopped green pepper

- one-third cup chopped sweet pickles
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup cubed process American cheese
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped pimiento
- 1 cup drained red kidney beans
- Combine mayonnaise, mustards, salt and pepper. Add lemon juice to the evaporated milk, stirring until evaporated milk is thickened. Add to mayonnaise mixture. Mix well. Combine hot macaroni, celery, onion, green pepper, pickles, cheese, pimientos and beans in large bowl. Pour salad dressing over mixture. Toss well. Serve warm or chilled (about two hours).

For landlubbers stocking their first galleys, here are the reasons experienced salts choose plasticized or paper tableware: they take spills without breaking; take knocks without chipping; they are light and stackable, and, a special bonus for sea-duty, they lend a festive air.

Still another secret the sophisticated, modern sailing wife has learned is how to look smart and snappy, and still be completely comfortable. Knitted slack suits are the answer. Ideal to pack, they also help shed sudden breezes, and let you "crew" in nimblest first-mate fashion. Among the styles available, a collection "designed to move in." In white with hip-hugging, checkered belt; in an off-beat yellow, mustard and mauve scheme, or in other saucy modes; such jaunty togs can't fail to make a splash on boats this summer.

Don't be surprised, either, if deck and dinette are covered with carpet! What we're wondering is, now which tar gets to swab the decks...the skipper or his mate?

your leisure-time grows ever longer, create an atmosphere appealing to you

The realization that one-third of the year's days are holidays is astonishing. And it's fact, not fiction. 104 days are accounted for with Saturdays and Sundays. Another eight for the national holidays and then ten more for the "two-week" vacation, a total of 122 days thus far.

Now a proposal is being considered to have four national holidays fall on Monday, as does Labor Day, providing for five three-day weekends each year, in addition to the often extended time-off at Christmas, New Year and Easter. The four-day work-week, like the moon, is within range—a happy thought or a threat, depending upon one's point of view.

Is it any wonder that the terms second-home, leisure-living, vacation home, year-round retreat, resort communities—to say nothing of retirement villages—have become commonplace in conversations from coast to coast. The life-style of the nation is affected.

One magazine puts out an entire issue on vacation homes including a section offering informational booklets pertaining directly to the subject, 272 booklets covering everything from awnings to waterproofing. The temper of the times is movement. The mobile home industry has mushroomed, the boating business boomed, and real estate values of land heretofore ignored have risen higher than the wildest predictions.

Also the cost factor for second homes can be kept to a minimum. The popular prefabricated houses, even "A" and "H" frames, can cost a low $4,000 to $5,000—delivered. A house in the "round" from Rondesics is under $4,000 and others price out at $3,895. Often the designs of second homes, because they are adventuresome and original, surpass so-called standard housing. They are designed to take advantage of the landscape and natural surroundings and are often conceived by widely known architects competing for national recognition.

As for interiors, no decorator is really needed, or for that matter wanted. Aunt Sadie's leftovers or Early-Salvation-Army "treasures" refinished and refurbished during leisure hours provide a houseful of "pride-filled" masterpieces, 100 percent originals.

For a sportsman's touch, a rustic-styled mirror or a set of duck decoy plaques hung on a fireplace wall enhance the informal feeling. It really takes very little. The surroundings provide so much, and it's difficult to upstage nature.

Geography is secondary, a combination of proximity and personal preference. In this expansive country, there is no dearth of beauty, a topography with appeal for every predilection. It is how one spends that one-third of his life that is important, vital. Money is recoupable, time not.

The chill of settling onto a plastic-covered car seat on a cold day can be eased by a new electrically heated seat cover. The vinyl cover, designed to warm up in 60 seconds, has a heating element inside it.

too much, too soon — of the sun? don't let it happen to you. Be safe!

Want to get all there is out of life in one summer?

Don't be in a rush to get too much sun too soon for too long a period, advises a human-health research organization. You can wind up with an unhealthy burn. It may feel fine during the day, but oh those nights!

"Take it easy" is the first rule for weathering the elements. Only Mad Dogs and Englishmen go out in the noonday sun. It's really the worst time for sunning because the rays are short, direct and hot. Late afternoon is a better time. And don't think that you can sit on the beach on a windy, hazy day and not get a burn. The rays are just as sharp—though not apparently so—during overcast days.

If a severe case of sunburn threatens to take the life out of you, take a cue from an age-old remedy. One of the oldest and most modern ways to soothe irritated skin and relieve itching not only from sunburn but also from other summer skin problems like heat rash and poison ivy and oak is to revitalize yourself in a cooling bath of a special concentrate of oatmeal. This bath treatment has long been recommended by physicians even for babies' tender skin-conditions, such as diaper rash, chafing and prickly heat.

To avoid heat exhaustion or sunstroke in extreme heat, if you perspire profusely take salt tablets and wear a light hat. If you're susceptible to sunburn, wear a wrist-length light shirt and trousers if you are a man, or a light robe with sleeves if you are a woman, even at the beach.

Also, bear in mind that summer evenings have their own distinct pleasures. So when the sun goes in, go right out and enjoy it. That's another secret for a long and happy vacation.

When your own tongue is hanging out during a real scorcher, resist the urge to give poor, panting Rover a crew-cut. Unless a clipped coat is his style, a summer hair cut will only make him easy prey for biting bugs and sunburn. Normal summer shedding helps long-haired dogs keep cool. You can do your part with a daily grooming to remove the loose hair.

Travel America

Noah Webster urged "see America first!" as early as 1788:

"A tour through the United States ought now to be considered as a necessary part of a liberal education instead of sending young gentlemen to Europe to view curiosities and learn vices and follies, let them spend twelve or eighteen months in examining the local situation of the different states—the rivers, the soil, the population, the improvements and commercial advantages to the spirit and manners of the inhabitants, their laws, local customs, and institutions. Such a tour should at least precede a tour to Europe . . .

"Americans, unshackle your minds and act like independent beings."

NOT FOR CAVE-EXPLORERS, BUT —

Unless you plan to spend your summer vacation exploring caves, chances are you and your family will be in the sun—basking on the beach, discovering America by car, camping in an unspoiled wilderness or boating in the lake region.

Whatever you do and wherever you go, sunglasses are an absolute necessity for vacation comfort, enjoyment and safety. Although playing or working in the sun without shades generally will not cause actual damage to the eye tissues, it will cause eye strain and fatigue. And eye strain means headaches and a bad disposition—not exactly the ideal combination for vacation fun.

Three or four hours without sunglasses on a bright day can reduce your ability to see after sundown more than 50 percent. And, after only one day in the sun, it takes a full week without further exposure to recover normal night vision. This, of course, is particularly dangerous for people who might be driving a car, piloting a boat or working at a campsite after dark. And, unfortunately, you're not aware of this loss in night vision accuracy because you have no comparison—you don't know what you cannot see.

Air pollution has made the need for sunglasses even greater, because the dust and debris in the atmosphere scatters light making glare more aggravating than bright sunlight. And shades also protect your eyes from flying dirt particles on a windy day.

Glass lenses offer the advantage of resistance to scratching, although they may break under sufficient impact. Plastic lenses, on the other hand, are lighter, more comfortable to wear and less likely to break.

Vacations are a sun-filled time so, to keep them fun-filled, protect your eyes with sunglasses.

Summer is vacation time, and the well-seasoned lady traveler plans her wardrobe as carefully as her itinerary.

Psychedelic Panty-hose Born to Be Seen . . . on the Smartest Legs

The escalating popularity of panty hose, so comfortable and practical for vacationing, has inspired a record variety of new styles, reports the fashion director of a leading mill. Proportioned-to-fit styles evaluate hip measurements along with height and weight to insure perfect fit for every figure.

Look for an all-sheer panty hose that assures a flattering view right up to the waist band. This all sheer style comes with a sandal foot. There's also a new support panty hose style with exclusive construction which assures perfect comfort and fit. This support panty hose provides gentle figure control and is so sheer no one will guess its support power. And it has a demi toe, too. There's a new Bikini type panty hose with the reinforced area of the panty knit in diagonal, giving the high side panty effect with smooth all in one construction, without seams. A Diet panty hose has a control top that's ideal for wear with pants suits. The panty is made of spandex for waist and hip control.

Clear, Softer Colors

Colors in panty hose and stockings are softer, subtler, attuned to the devastatingly feminine trend in body clinging costumes. Blued colors with pink, lavender and periwinkle are strong fashion favorites.

Blued pink is a potent flatterer, as an accent for navy and white. Peachy coral is another sophisticated hue that's a scene stealer. Cream continues to be a top favorite as do subtle shadings of beige and grey, including Honey Bee, Putty, Shetland and Moonstone.

Most adventurous styles in panty hose are Peter Max's line of astrologically oriented designs which feature silk screened fantasias of flowers, constellations and clouds in spots of vibrant color. A strong advocate of making legs the focal point of fashion, the cosmic artist, who's the idol of the under 25's, positions spots of brilliant color strategically to glamorize the curve of the thigh, the knee or the calf. His objective is to give legs a new kind of excitement with cosmic purpose. His panty hose and body stockings are designed to be exponents of joy wherever they circulate, giving the young spirited individualist full scope for achieving her very own identity.

There are dozens of long-distance trips to tantalize the aesthete on a bike holiday. Some of them—like the "Buckeye Odyssey" Tour—span 380 miles from Ohio's fertile farm land to its lake shore to its southern hills.

Happy, Healthy Days Abound Along U.S. Highways of History

This summer, will you pan for gold at Sutter's Mill, ride muleback along the Santa Fe trail, watch the Battle of Atlanta erupt around you, or ride one of the last steam-powered locomotives in Steamtown, Vermont?

The list of interesting, unusual vacations is endless for today's free-wheeling motoring family which hits the camping trail. From Rocky Mountains to rolling hills, Great Lakes to vast deserts, millions of Americans are expected to join camping caravans this summer.

Many families with school-age children are using their vacations as traveling courses in American history as they retrace pioneer trails. Choosing a theme, they cover all the related sites within a convenient geographical area.

In the East, an interest in the American Revolution may take the mobile family from Independence Square, Philadelphia through battlefields and meeting halls in New York, Massachusetts and Vermont.

Moonlight and magnolias, hushpuppies and catfish are still a way of life throughout the Old South. Young and old alike will enjoy the antebellum splendor which is preserved in plantations, fine restaurants, museums and the tradition of southern hospitality.

The Wild West seems a little bit wilder as one surveys the last ruins of such historic battles as the Alamo, Custer's Last Stand, and the final resting place of many a desperado, Boot Hill in Tombstone, Arizona.

Even in this speed-conscious age, motoring continues to be one of the most popular means of vacation travel. It offers fun at a modest budget, the freedom to pause to enjoy scenic pleasures without sticking to a rigid timetable, privacy and a mobility which can take in spur-of-the-moment side trips.

Good health and good family fun go hand-in-hand on these highway holidays, so beware of the danger signs of summer colds. Most cold remedies use antihistamines to try to tame sniffles and other symptoms. However, antihistamines often bring on drowsy side-effects which can slow reactions at the wheel or brake your enthusiasm for the historical lessons in our surroundings.

If your vacation trail takes you to the Pacific Northwest, you'll find unrivalled natural beauty along the picturesque coastline and in the camping and park network that features geysers, waterfalls, volcanoes, mountains and waterways.

Over 15,000 miles of Bikeways have been completed across the country within the last three years, according to the Bicycle Institute. Bikeways are systems of secondary roads, usually parallel to main streets, and often with roads or trails branching off into woodland, with lakes and camping ground nearby. And, the National Trail Study, recently completed by the U.S. Department of the Interior, calls for more than 100,000 miles of urban and rural bike paths in the next ten years.

It's a wonderful country, this United States of ours, and we can enjoy it far more by surrounding our families with fruits, nuts and flowers and all the foliage wealth of beautiful Nature that too many home owners seem to neglect.

DIVERS, FOLLOW SAFETY RULES

Use the buddy system. Always dive with a companion.

Buy equipment with safety releases and get compressed air for scuba diving at recognized skin diving supply outlets.

When using air tanks, limit operations to a maximum depth of 130 feet. Know and observe the rates of ascent given in the U.S. Navy Decompression Tables to prevent air embolism and the bends.

When skin diving—without air tanks—don't try to stay under overlong. A lack of fresh air for too long can cost a swimmer his judgment.

Take along a dependable float for each diver. Devise and use a system of hand signals for underwater communication with the other divers.

Whenever diving, fly the divers' flag which requests boats to keep 100 feet away.

Don't dive when conditions are unfriendly.

Know you are in good physical shape when diving.

While driving or doing close work, relax eye muscles because they can get cramped like leg muscles. Blink occasionally, and then re-focus eyes from a close to a distant object. This really rests eyes fast.

Garden Remedy

Pioneers in our southern mountains planted marigolds in their corn patches to attract insects that might otherwise destroy the corn.

observe these eight ground rules for top enjoyment of a pool

Spring means roller skates to tots, romance to teenagers, housecleaning to moms and lawnmowing to dads. But for any family who owns a swimming pool (and an increasing number of middle-income households are acquiring them each year), spring means the start of a long and lively season in the water.

But before you and the kids take that first plunge, it's important to line up a few sensible safety rules. These pool pointers will help you keep your head above water—at least as often as necessary for safe summer swimming.

1. Pool maintenance is the first requirement for healthy and happy plunging, so be sure to add the proper chemicals and to clean filters so that water will stay clear and germ free. Repair damaged equipment before it becomes a hazard.

2. Always arrange for an adult to be present whenever children use the pool. This policy should be enforced as strictly with neighbors' children as with your own.

3. Wait an hour after meals before entering pool.

4. Poolside life preservers are essential. An inflated inner tub is fine for this purpose.

5. A high fence surrounding the pool will protect small fry and could save you negligence charges. Always keep gate closed when pool is not in use. For the smaller, portable type of pool a temporary type of snow fencing can be used.

6. Filters should be run so that water is completely filtered every 18-24 hours and should be cleaned every three to ten days.

7. Electric lights in pool area increase safety of night swimming and help prevent accidents after dark. Main switches to electrically powered equipment should be cut off and fuses removed after the swimming season.

8. During the off-season, cover pool with plastic or canvas top strong enough to support an adult.

Multi-car families making a transcontinental move can now ship cars by train between New York City, Philadelphia, Baltimore, or Washington and Los Angeles or San Francisco. The new service is offered by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway-Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at $320 per car regardless of size, including a wash job at the end of the trip.

One final hint: before you snap your suitcase shut, be sure you've packed the three items most often forgotten by travelers: shower cap, camera and film, and address book, so you can let everyone back home know you're "having a wonderful time."

Family fun will be enhanced if the children study up on the events and significance of the major sites on your itinerary before the wagons roll so that you can discuss them during your visit. It's a surefire way for demonstrating that history can be fun.

An obviously nervous woman whispered to an inspector in Dallas that she suspected there was a bomb in her carry-all bag. The bag was vibrating and the inspector, thinking a large, buzzing insect was hiding in it, opened the bag to find that the woman's electric toothbrush had accidentally switched on.

Laser beams are being bounced back from the moon to each side of the South Atlantic to measure to within inches how far South America and Africa are drifting apart.

Students of history can find vacation Bikeways, well-marked, through Abe Lincoln's country.

HEED THESE CAR-CARE TIPS, ADD LIFE TO YOUR HOLIDAY

While an extended car trip is no longer the adventure it was in the days of goggles and linen dusters, it's a fact that nearly half the 60 million car-vacationers in the U.S. still drive off as if it were.

You can drive right up to the head of the class by heeding these helpful hints from councils on automobile travel safety that can help make your trip a safe and pleasant one.

See your family doctor for a medical checkup if you haven't had one within six months before you start out.

If you take medicine regularly, make sure you have enough for the trip. To be on the safe side, take a copy of your prescription with you and carry your doctor's card so that he can be reached if necessary.

Always keep a first-aid kit and instruction book handy in your glove compartment. For everyday and vacation travel, your first aid kit should contain: adhesive tape and bandages; tourniquet; an antiseptic, such as Iodine Antiseptic, which is ideal for simple cuts, burns, scratches and abrasions; aspirin; a burn ointment; and car-sickness pills. Other "pick-me-ups" include aromatic spirits of ammonia, for dizzy spells, and a family-type laxative for when you and your youngsters get "off-schedule" and the queasies from changes in environment, different food and drinking water.

If you wear glasses, better take an extra pair.

Prepare an M.I.C. (Medical Identification Card) on each family member. Your wife diabetic? Your son suffer from asthma? In case of a road accident, the card will immediately impart this vital knowledge to an attending person. The M.I.C.

should also contain immunization dates and blood types for each passenger.

Carry your hospitalization insurance identification card.

A change of drinking water is sometimes distressing to youngsters, so carry water from a safe source in a large vacuum jug.

Also take along enough gum, games, toys and books for the children. Singing and keeping score of out-of-town license plates will help relieve their boredom; so will a stop for exercise about every two hours.

A long-held dream of bicycle-riding enthusiasts here is coming true: A scenic, marked pathway for bikes only, parts of it to be paved especially for bicycling. About ten miles long, the route runs from the southern edge of San Francisco northward close to the Pacific Ocean beach across the Golden Gate Bridge into the rural byways of Marin county. The city is paying for the route; directors of the Golden Gate Bridge District authorized cyclists to use the west sidewalk on the bridge.

Any trip with a baby requires a certain amount of paraphernalia, but with a little careful planning you can keep it down to a minimum and make the trip much easier.

A baby thermometer is also a useful item to take along. And be sure to take the name and telephone number of the baby's pediatrician in case of emergency.

An early herbal reminds us that spreading rue, wormwood, and gall on floors during July is an effective way of keeping fleas away.
